

Jubilee 'First' Replaces Spinal Bone

By JOHN MATTERS

Surgeons at Royal Jubilee hospital have replaced a diseased bone in a man's spinal column with a metallic substitute, the first operation of its kind to be reported in Canada and possibly the world.

The patient, a Victorian in his 60s, is in "very good condition," Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director told a press conference Monday afternoon.

The man's name was not released, and neither was that of the surgeon.

"To the best of our knowledge, there is no record of this operation being performed previously in Canada," said Dr. Pickles. "To that extent, it seems to be a first."

It was learned later that there also appeared to be no record of the procedure in the surgical literature of the United States or Great Britain.

The patient, suffering a progressively degenerative

disease, had a choice of undergoing the operation or spending the rest of his life on his back.

While it is still too early to assess the outcome of the operation, said Dr. Pickles, "we are very hopeful."

"I was talking to the patient an hour ago and he looks well and is in good spirits. He is quite aware that this is a novel procedure. He knew what was involved and said, 'Let's have a go at it.'"

"It took a willing patient and a courageous doctor."

The six-hour operation began at 9:05 a.m. Friday in one of the 13 operating rooms in Royal Jubilee's fifth-floor surgical suite.

There were six doctors and nurses in the team.

The first five hours were spent removing the diseased vertebra — the No. 2 lumbar — in the lower back. The bone, compressed under the weight of the upper part of the body, was meticulously chipped away.

It was an exceedingly delicate procedure because the spinal cord, the main member of the body's nervous system, is cradled in the bone of the spinal column.

A slip of the instrument could have damaged the cord, the cells of which do not regenerate, and could have left the patient with a permanent disability.

The patient was lying on his abdomen and immediately below the vertebra being removed was the abdominal aorta.

The proximity of that major blood vessel also required extreme caution.

Nixon's Bandwagon First-Day Keynote

Frazzling Pace Maintained In Postal Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiators maintained a frazzling pace Monday in a final effort to keep Canada's postal strike out of Parliament's lap.

The two key men attempting to narrow the issues in the dispute beat a well-worn path between suites in a downtown hotel occupied by a federal mediator and their respective advisers. (See also Pages 7, 16.)

Romeo Mathieu, chief negotiator for the Council of Postal Unions, was up working at 7:30 a.m. after less than three hours' sleep.

PROMPT START

He joined the mediator, Judge Rene Lippe of Montreal, at 10 a.m., anticipating a "serious attempt" during the day to produce a settlement.

Douglas Love, the treasury board officer representing the federal government, arrived with his morning coffee in hand at 10:40 a.m.

INTO NIGHT

They broke again for dinner and were still continuing late in the evening with no sign of a solution.

There was no official indication of the specific subjects under discussion Monday, or during the 14 hours of negotiations Sunday, when Judge Lippe brought the two sides together after a four-day break.

The strike of 24,000 postal workers enters its 20th day today.

The federal cabinet, called into its weekly session a day early by Prime Minister Trudeau, was to meet this morning with the strike certain to be on the agenda.

Trudeau has said some form of intervention, presumably strike-ending legislation by a new Parliament, must be considered when it becomes apparent that the two sides are "world apart" or "out of the hands" on the public are becoming intolerable.

It was understood that major hurdles remained to be crossed on working conditions and wages.

Some of the problems involved are said to be the government's sole authority over job classifications, promotions and transfers.

Lines Cut By Blaze

B.C. Telephone Co. late Monday night was investigating reports that some of its circuits in the Munn and Millstream Lake Road area had been severed by a forest fire.

In addition, there was a report a resident on Millstream Lake Road had evacuated his horses.

It could not be confirmed, however.

The fire, burning north of Mount Finlayson, was being kept under observation overnight. (Earlier story Page 6.)

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) —

The Republicans opened their 29th national convention Monday with Richard Nixon in town and gaining support, Ronald Reagan formally in the race and Nelson Rockefeller doggedly fighting Nixon's bandwagon strategy.

Inside convention hall and out, it was not Rockefeller's day. The delegates gave Barry Goldwater a nostalgic roar, heard Dwight Eisenhower's voice with respectful applause and saw a parade of young "new faces" in the GOP firmament led by keynote Governor Daniel Evans of Washington. (See also Page 14.)

Charles Percy, Howard Baker, Mark Hatfield and John Lindsay, four young "new breed" politicians, were the most talked about potential vice-presidential candidates.

POPULAR IDEA

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican nominee, flew into town with an idea popular with his own admirers — a Nixon-Reagan ticket. Reagan insisted second place was out of the question.

Despite an exhausting day in pursuit of delegates, Rockefeller saw Maryland Governor Spiro Agnew break the favorite son ranks the New Yorker considers vital in his strategy to halt a first-ballot Nixon nomination Wednesday night. Then Governor David Cargo of New Mexico told newsmen on the convention floor he probably would follow Agnew's lead.

STILL IN GAME

Rockefeller still had the big Ohio and Michigan delegations committed only to their governors on the first ballot and said "We've still got a ball game."

Nixon arrived from New York to a tumultuous greeting from 2,000 fans at the airport, and his arm-waving shout of "this time we're going to win" had the ring of supreme confidence.

Agnew's long-expected endorsement of Nixon could add as many as 17 Maryland delegates to his total. Cargo's shift would add his and another New Mexico

'A Very Nostalgic Surprise'

Like Old Times to Barry

By STUART H. LOORY

MIAMI BEACH (LAT) — There was just a trace of old times: the sleek blue and white Jetstar whined its way to a stop, the hatch opened, and then, suddenly, there he was waving in the entrance way.

A shout of "We Want Barry" went up from the crowd. A small bugle and drum combination hired by Arizona delegates blared the battle hymn of the republic and Barry Goldwater set foot in Florida to make his contribution to the Republican national convention.

His light grey glen plaid suit was immaculate, his light blue shirt was unwrinkled, his dark blue tie carried a barely visible Arizona state flag embroidered on it. He was tall and smiling and well tanned.

The crowd cheered. The drum-and-bugles played "I Left My Heart in San Francisco."

You were thinking of old times, of how, four years ago in San Francisco, this was the man who stamped the Republican party into supporting his Quixotic campaign for the presidency.

Talk about charisma. Remember those nights in the Cow Palace when the followers of Barry Goldwater hooted down New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller and then raised the rafters when he proclaimed:

"Extremism in defence of liberty is no vice. Moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

You suddenly found that he was thinking of old times as well.

"It's a real surprise, a very nostalgic surprise, to have people still interested in you," he told the airport crowd.

The convention hall speech Monday night told a story of a maturing process.

In place of his extremism remarks, there was this passage:

"Certainly it is true that the tide of liberty, even of libertarianism that runs through all Republicans, has somehow escaped the notice of some of those who most loudly call for liberty today."

But in his press conference at the airport, he was the same shoot-from-the-hip candidate of old. What would be the big issue of 1968?

"Crime, the abuse of law, anarchy," he answered.

How did he feel about Lyndon Johnson running against him on a peace platform and then escalating the Vietnam war?

"Everyone in positions of responsibility in 1964 knew the war would have to be escalated," he said, including the president. He added:

"If I had to tell lies to get elected, I would just as soon go back to running the farm."

That was the fire that gave Goldwater all the excitement in 1964.

$2,000,000 Mall

Renewal Project Begun on Yates

By A. H. MURPHY

A $2,000,000 private enterprise urban renewal project has been started in the 700 block on the north side of Yates Street and will be completed in about two years. (Pictures, Page 15.)

The project, which has been under study for more than a year, is expected to revitalize the north side of Yates and the south side of Johnson between Douglas and Blanshard. It will be paid for entirely by the merchants involved, who have formed a new organization called the 700 Block Mid-Town Mall.

Incorporated in the new group are the 700 Block Yates Street Association and the Mid-Town Mall, the organization which administered the mall development on the south side between Yates and View.

INTERIOR MALL

Included in the enterprise will be:

● An interior pedestrian mall between the stores facing on Yates and Johnson which will open on to an interior courtyard, smaller than but somewhat similar to Bastion Square.

● Development of the interior mall in a manner similar to Tronzo Alley.

● A tie-in to a 400-car civic parking building which will span Johnson Street.

● A beautification program for Yates Street which will include cutting the vehicle channel to three lanes (Yates will be part of the city's one-way-street plan which goes into effect in September), widening the sidewalks and adding an avenue of trees and street furniture.

VITAL TO DOWNTOWN

Jack Lacterman, president of the former 700 Block Yates Street Association, who has been in charge of planning for what has been labelled "The North Side Project," said Monday that the concept was of vital importance to the downtown area of Victoria.

"It is another progressive step by the Yates Street businessmen who have already developed the mall on the south side, and erected canopies on both sides of the street," he said.

"It is particularly important."

Israel, Jordan Both Chided In New Clashes

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — The United States reproved Israel Monday for a reprisal raid Sunday on an alleged Arab guerrilla camp near Amman, Jordan, while chiding Jordan for commando raids that preceded the air assault.

Making his first speech to the United Nations Security Council, George W. Ball, new U.S. chief delegate, also appealed to both sides to reconsider their opposition to the stationing of UN observers on the ceasefire line.

The American delegate addressed the 19-nation council, called into emergency session at the request of both Jordan and Israel, after Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union linked the Israeli attack to Ball's own recent visit to Israel.

Ball angrily rejected this "contribution of obfuscation to the discussion of a tragic situation which is already clouded with dust and dissension."

In his statement, Ball said the U.S. government does not condone "the major military attack Israel made upon Jordan on Sunday."

There must be no doubt whatever about the U.S. position towards this attack and the others which preceded it, he said. At the same time, neither does the U.S. condone those acts of "terrorism and sabotage" which had, with increasing frequency, been launched from Jordan.

REJECTION

Thundering Rail Crash Sends 125 to Hospital

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) —

The Seaboard Coast Line's northbound Silver Meteor crashed into its southbound counterpart Monday, sending more than 125 persons to hospital. Four were hurt seriously.

The southbound train was stopped on the main track, waiting for the other train to switch to a siding, when the northbound train ran into it with a thundering crash tossing 15 cars off the rails, including nine passenger coaches.

More than 100 persons were treated at the Winter Haven hospital alone, said L. B. Johnson, hospital administrator. He said 21 people were admitted and another 81 were treated and released.

Among those treated was Beatrice Bedard of the Montreal suburb of Rosemount.

Railway officials were not certain what caused the accident.

"It could have been a faulty switch or a dispatcher error," said a spokesman. "We just don't know."

"It may take intensive investigation."

Trainmen aboard the stationary southbound Silver Meteor said they saw the other train coming but were helpless to prevent the crash.

"We saw him coming and realized he was on the same track," said Harold Walters, a fireman on the stationary southbound train. "When he showed no intention of stopping, we bailed out."

Three trainmen were trapped in the cab of one demolished diesel engine. Sheriff's deputy Ed Lockwood said: "They had to pry them out with crowbars and acetylene torches."

Manila Aftershock Panics Hundreds

MANILA (UPI) — A strong aftershock from Luzon's killer earthquake drove hundreds of jittery office workers from tremor-damaged buildings into the streets this morning.

The new shock, coming four days after the earthquake that left more than 200 dead in the Manila area, was recorded at an intensity of 4 on the Rossi-

Forel scale of 10. It was one of the strongest of 351 aftershocks recorded.

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — An earth tremor shook the Peruvian capital for 10 seconds Monday. It caused no damage.

The geophysical institute recorded the tremor at 9:24 a.m.

Yates Project

In my view, because it is being done by private enterprise, it shows that businessmen do not always run to the city when they want improvements."

Mr. Lacterman said the concept for the mall and for the beautification of Yates Street was developed by Roderick Clack, chief architect of the National Planning Commission, Ottawa.

Mr. Clack left his nationally important post to visit Victoria on two occasions to develop the plan, Mr. Lacterman said.

"His love of Victoria was our good fortune, and we were delighted that he could help us out," the merchant added.

Engineering will be done by Willis and Cunliffe Engineering Ltd.

COMMENDABLE

City Planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh agreed that the initiative shown by the merchants was commendable.

"It's another example of how private enterprise can link with City Hall to improve the city. I am delighted to see such an interest taken in the downtown," said Mr. Greenhalgh.

He added that the project did not need the city's blessing, inasmuch as it was being done privately and in consultation with the city.

TRANSFORMATION

Development of the interior mall and courtyard will see a narrow, dingy alley between streets facing on Yates and on Johnson transformed into a landscaped passway, 20 or more feet wide, with flowers, an tables, small shops and boutiques.

This will open into a terraced courtyard with decorative paving, overhead walks, trees, green areas and more shops.

Entrance to the mall and courtyard will be through stores facing on Yates and Johnson. Many businessmen are now

CITY PLANS

The completion of the project hinges to some extent on the intentions of the city with regard to its parking building on Johnson.

It is expected that the 400-car, $750,000 building will span Johnson and have several entrances. Principal entrance from Yates will be the alleyway now used by Mac's Parking.

Development of the premises on the southeast corner of Johnson and Douglas, which has been leased by the Bank of British Columbia, will also be a factor.

BANK BUILDING

Another consideration, Mr. Lacterman said Monday, is the development of the Toronto-Dominion Bank on the northeast corner of Johnson and Douglas.

This becomes a factor if and when the present 10-storey building is replaced. It is expected that a new office building will occupy that corner, and the accommodation of tenants and provision of parking space all have to be taken into consideration in the Yates Street plans.

It was learned Monday that tenants in the present Toronto-Dominion building have been given until the end of August to vacate.

RELOCATED

Several of them have already relocated in offices adjacent to the development area.

Mr. Lacterman said Monday that the whole enterprise was sparked by Victoria business- man Geoffrey Ellis, who agreed to buy and develop two old warehouses which form part of the interior mall. He is doing extensive improvement and alterations in preparation for the renewal project.

Nixon's Bandwagon

delegate to the Nixon column. But Nixon strategists hoped the real gain would be a psychological push toward a Nixon stampede.

LATE COUNT

At midnight, the UPI tabulation of delegate preferences, leaning and committed, was: Nixon 665, only two short of the 667 votes needed to nominate; Rockefeller 274; Reagan 179; favorite sons 180, and uncommitted 35.

The tally showed a 24-hour net gain of nine votes for Nixon, and one for Rockefeller, a Reagan loss of one, an added uncommitted vote and a loss of nine in the favorite-son category.

With that high a total on the first rollcall, Nixon hoped that favorite sons, seeking not to be left out in the cold, would withdraw and lend their strength to him.

QUICK WORK

Told that he had to declare if he expected to make inroads on Nixon's strength in four southern delegations, Reagan shed the pretence that he was only a favorite son candidate and would not become "serious" until placed in nomination.

Ten minutes after the California delegation, fearing Nixon defections within its membership, adopted a resolution urging Reagan to become a formal candidate, he did so.

"This will help," Rockefeller said of the Reagan development, hoping it would stop Nixon's bandwagon.

Spinal Bone Replaced at Jubilee

the bone, developed by a specialist from the Victoria firm of Kennametal of Canada Ltd., in consultation with the surgeon, is basically two semi-circular rings with supports separating them.

Dr. Pickles said he was not certain of the ingredients of the metal, although it could have contained titanium. It had to be both strong and non-irritating, he said.

The rings were fastened to the No. 1 and No. 3 lumbar vertebrae, with screws to stabilize them. Doctors expect the device will be further stabilized by the formation of fibrous tissue.

They were asked if the Royal Jubilee operation — and the procedure is so new it hasn't even been named — could lead to the eventual replacement of two or three vertebrae with metal substitutes.

"The technical difficulties would be enormous," said one doctor. "Even with one prosthetic, there is bound to be a certain limitation of movement."

The operation, if it is (ultimately) successful, would be useful in only specific bone diseases of the spine, said Dr. Pickles.

"This patient suffered an irreversibly degenerative

Risk of Mongolism Raised By Pregnant Woman's Age

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the odds of a woman, 41, and man, 61, having a normal child? Both have been examined and are normal and healthy. My fiancée is afraid of having a Mongoloid child because of her age. C.T.

Risk of Mongolism (and some other defects) increases somewhat if the mother is in her 40s, but it is not a vast increase in risk. The greater problem, it seems to me, involves the child's upbringing. You are 61 now and active. But are you going to be brisk enough to keep up with an energetic child of 10 when you are 71?

It's better all around for folks to have their children in 20s and 30s, although there is no denying that women in their 40s have raised many a healthy baby.

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: My father found out recently that he has sugar diabetes. Since, to my knowledge none of his ancestors had diabetes, I assume his case is caused by excessive drinking. If so, is there a hereditary danger of my children getting it? — R.S.

Diabetes sometimes develops with no discoverable hereditary trace. The excessive drinking may have hastened your father's case, but I doubt that it caused it. Once diabetes appears in a family, there is a greater chance of it in subsequent generations. It would be wise to have your children checked occasionally.

Note to Mrs. E.C.: The best thought I can offer is that polydipsy in the nose is believed in many cases to be related to allergy — but identifying the allergy is difficult.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am pregnant and have had a complete examination and blood test by my obstetrician. Would he be able to tell if I have venereal disease from this? — Mrs. M.S.

Yes. That is one of the purposes of the examination.

Dear Mr. Molner: Is it possible to save hair that is thinning by means of massage? — M.C.

Not to any practical degree.

Paris Press Conference

Hanoi Hardening On Major Issue

PARIS (LAT) — Under persistent questioning from more than 40 newsmen for nearly an hour Monday, North Vietnam's official spokesman at the Paris peace talks refused either to confirm or deny that there is any political significance in the current lull in the fighting in South Vietnam.

INTERPRETATION CRUCIAL
At the same time, the questioning of the delegation spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, produced what appeared to be a hardening in North Vietnamese demands that the U.S. would have to recognize and negotiate with the Viet Cong National Liberation Front in order to reach a solution in the Vietnam war.

The press conference probably was as important for what was not said as what was said. In the present state of the "official conversations," now in their 11th week, the interpretation and conclusions to be drawn in Washington from all of this may be crucial in what happens next.
Cyrus Vance, co-head of the American negotiating team with Ambassador Averell Harriman, flew back to Washington Monday afternoon for his third trip since the talks began in May to confer with President Johnson. Secretary of State Rusk and other top government officials. Although nothing is happening in Paris, there is plenty to talk about because a crucial point of decision seems to be in the making on both sides.

Spain Clamps Down on Basques

MADRID (Reuters) — The Spanish government declared a virtual state of emergency Monday in the northern province of Guipuzcoa and suspended civil rights for three months in a bid to stop growing violence by Basque nationalists.

A decree by Gen. Francisco Franco, head of state, published in the official state bulletin said repeated criminal acts and disturbances "by agitators who follow the instigations of clandestine groups, supported from abroad" had created a climate of violence in the province.
It suspended three articles of the Fuero de los Espanoles, Spain's bill of rights, and authorized Interior Minister Gen.

Camilo Alonso Vega to take the necessary measures to crush the nationalists.
Under the law, provincial police can make arrests without warrant, and hold suspects indefinitely without going through normal legal channels. They also can enter and search homes without warrants, and "exile" inhabitants of the province to other parts of Spain.

The Basques, who live in northern Spain and southwestern France, have their own language but are a social and linguistic faction rather than a racial group.
The government crackdown followed the murder of a policeman Friday by Basque terrorists in Guipuzcoa province, the second such killing this summer.
The murders were believed to have been carried out by a Basque nationalist organization whose leaders live in France.
Spanish Basques have campaigned for an independent state composed of the provinces of Guipuzcoa, Alava and Vizcaya since the late 19th century, although the nationalist movement has been a minority group lacking mass support since the 1936-39 Spanish Civil War.
During the civil war the Basque provinces held out in northern Spain as an isolated Republic.

Vietnam Scene

Railways Near Extinction

From AP, Reuters
A Viet Cong mine blew up one of South Vietnam's two operating trains Monday.

The explosion blew the engine off the tracks outside the central coastal town of Phan Rang, killing two persons and injuring four others. The South Vietnamese railway now has one train left.

Elsewhere:
● The Viet Cong wounded a U.S. general whose son was killed in action in 1967, and shot down a U.S. helicopter near Saigon.

The victim is Brig-Gen. Franklin Davis Jr., commander of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade. He's one of half a dozen U.S. generals wounded in Vietnam. Three others have been killed. Davis' youngest son, 2nd Lieut. Stephen Davis, was killed in action last year.

● A new South Vietnamese commander, Lt-Gen. Do Cao Tri, has been appointed to provinces around Saigon. Former ambassador to South Korea, he replaces Lt-Gen. Le Nguyen Khang, who resigned after the second Viet Cong offensive in May. Khang still heads South Vietnam's marine forces.

● South Vietnam has increased its regular armed forces by 19 per cent in the last four months. The boost has been attributed to the general mobilization begun in late May and more voluntary enlistment. Regular forces now number 335,000 men, an increase of 63,000 over March figures.

Tribesmen Pardoned

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The new Iraqi government issued a pardon Monday for all persons involved in the Kurdish rebellion in northern Iraq from 1961 to 1966, Baghdad radio reported.

The amnesty indicated a desire to satisfy, once and for all, demands of the Kurdish tribes for self-rule and a share in the oil wealth of northern Iraq.

New York Set

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City has had plans in effect since early July to enable police and the courts to deal with up to 12,000 arrests in a 24-hour period in the event of mass civil disorders, Mayor John Lindsay has disclosed.

"My Jimmy," boasted the proud mother. "Just was a prime in his sleep."

"What for?" asked a friend.

"The teacher asked the class how many legs an alligator has and Jimmy said five."

"Five? But an alligator has only four legs."

"I know," said the mother. "But he was the classiest."

Compromise

UNDERSTANDABLY, the Communist nations of East Europe are calling the Bratislava declaration an example of generous compromise and a triumphant symbol of unity among them.

Pravda, the voice of the Soviet Communist party, hails the agreement as an achievement which has won "whole-hearted support of all fraternal parties, the broadest progressive quarters and all the peace-loving peoples of the world."

Yet on the face of it, the Bratislava formula would seem to be a significant victory for the forces of liberalism within the Communist enclave as represented by the reformists in Mr. Alexander Dubcek's party.

The question is: What prompted an apparently abrupt change of policy on the part of Moscow and the orthodox allies?

Two weeks ago, while Russian troops lingered on Czechoslovakian soil after the June joint Warsaw Pact manoeuvres, there were obvious attempts at intimidation of Mr. Dubcek. Pointedly, Pravda compared the Czechoslovakian situation with that of Hungary in 1956.

It called the program of the liberals in Prague "counter-revolutionary," precisely the term applied to the Hungarian effort at reform which brought the armed intervention of Soviet Russia.

Mr. Dubcek and the members of the government showed great courage in the face of such threats.

But the stubborn Czechoslovak attitude alone—some saw it as defiance—would not have been sufficient to discourage the overwhelming opposition to change mounted by Moscow and the aligned Communist governments.

Neither would the sympathetic support of Yugoslavia and the cautious approval of Romania for Mr. Dubcek have diverted intervention if such a measure had appeared expedient.

But these developments, along with the critical reaction of powerful Communist forces in Western Europe, must have given Moscow's policy-makers cause to reconsider the position—particularly when a show of solidarity is so important to Russia in its preparation for a world conference of Communist parties. That, conceivably, swayed the balance towards discretion.

Pravda has suggested that behind the liberalization movement in Czechoslovakia is a deep, dark plot by Western powers to split the Communist camp. This sort of accusation is too silly to merit a rejoinder. If Pravda—that is to say the Soviet Communist Party—really believed in it, the tanks would already be in Prague. The truth is that wherever the repressions of a police state are encountered there is bound to be resistance; wherever there are shackles men are bound to try to shake loose of them in the name of freedom.

Rule by Disruption

AS THE POSTAL STRIKE approaches the end of a third week of apparently fruitless negotiation, the limit of public tolerance must be close at hand.

The Montreal Gazette makes this timely observation: "To argue that what the country has gone through in the weeks of this strike should be regarded as normal, acceptable, a proper way of doing things, and the sort of thing that should be legal, and allowed to happen again and again, is to operate government on the principle that it doesn't matter what the public suffers."

"What is needed for the future," the newspaper goes on, "is only an amendment to the act that gave the right of collective bargaining to public employees... The machinery for arbitration, binding on the government and the union alike, is already there."

The Gazette maintains that if a government will not call Parliament until public injury has been sufficiently severe to arouse a public demand for intervention, we should be living in a state of rule by economic disruption.

And the Gazette comments: "What a way to run a government."

The increasing chaos in the business world, the general inconvenience and the inevitable ill will the continuing stalemate engenders cannot be dismissed much longer with the typical prime ministerial shrug of the shoulders. Mr. Trudeau's administration has not shown even a glimmering of genius in the first domestic crisis it has faced. Here is a situation calling urgently for remedy, a solution within the bounds of reason and justice.

If the government continues to drift without direction, we shall find ourselves presently in a position where a settlement will be on the postal unions' terms. And if, after all, these are acceptable to the government, what on earth will have been accomplished by resisting them?

What a way to run a country!

Not to Blame

MR. GEORGE CHATTERTON has cleared the air on the subject of federal funds for sewer projects in answer to the assertions of his successor as member of Parliament for Esquimalt-Saanich, Mr. David Anderson. The Liberal M.P. elect has claimed that it is the provincial government's fault that B.C. municipalities have not had a larger share of federal loans for sewer construction. British Columbia, Mr. Anderson said last week, had only received $25,700,000 compared with Ontario's $160,000,000 "because the provincial government hasn't asked for any more on behalf of its municipalities."

Why hasn't it asked for more? Mr. Chatterton has supplied the very simple answer to the question. The municipalities have not applied for more. They have not been ready to spend more.

The local councils must apply through the provincial government for the loans under the National Housing Act. They cannot deal directly with Ottawa. But, according to Mr. Chatterton, the province "has never declined any application and has, in fact, supported every one without exception."

It is incidentally worth noting that the subsidization feature of the loans is limited. These are not low-interest loans, but if the work is completed before March 31, 1970, a quarter of the loan and a quarter of the interest up to the date of completion are "forgiven."

The deadline is uncomfortably near for federal aid in this form.

A Suddenly Supercharged East Block

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

CHARLES de Gaulle—Charles de Gaulle who did you say?

The question, asked with a quiet, well-satisfied chuckle, came over the phone from just across Parliament Hill.

One of Prime Minister Trudeau's aides was asking it.

A whole new guard of Men Friday—and very sharp they are, too—has taken over in the prime minister's East Block suite.

Could be that the boss allows them considerably more "freedom of speech" than prime ministerial aides previously have enjoyed, but whatever the reason, the Trudeau "spies-in-chief" speak in clearer, firmer voice than did Lester Pearson's.

The "Charles de Gaulle" crack was typical.

It answered the question beautifully.

And the question had been: "What did the PM think about those French government inspired reports from Paris that General de Gaulle, having learned from his own troubles at home, was set to start stirring up trouble abroad again, specifically for Canada in Quebec?"

"Not being smug about it, the way the East Block sees things, the new French government now simply can't afford to tamper with its own prestige or the softening currency—its previous political adventuring as an international home-wrecker."

And nowhere, believes the federal government, has this been as realistically understood as among the provincial politicians in Quebec City.

The Quebec government, which carried out two-year flirtation with Paris, has discovered that for French Canadians—even the separatists—General de Gaulle has lost his political sex appeal.

The re-emergence of the figure of the de Gaulle Grandpère has been perceived like the balloon of hot air that has been all along.

Le grand-père Charles just isn't believable in Quebec any more and probably never will be again.

"De Gaulle," proclaims the one possibly credible separatist leader Rene Levesque, "is nothing but an overbearing old man with an insufferably inflated ego."

What has taken the stars out of French Canada's eyes is the embarrassment of knowing that when de Gaulle was giving it separatist thrills from his "le Quebec libre" from the Montreal balcony last summer, back in Paris, thousands of students and workers were getting set to start crying "Vive la France libre."

Just about everybody across la Belle Province, but especially the provincial government, is acutely sensitive to the humiliating fact that while de Gaulle was giving them goose pimples of nationalistic delight by trying to tell them how they should be governing, he was scarcely able to control much less govern many of his own people.

So Premier Daniel Johnson's political honeymoon with le Grand Charles first was postponed, and then, because of illness, conveniently cancelled.

Former separatist MP Gilles Gregoire, now leader of the Rassemblement National, and Pierre Bourgault, head of the Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance nationale, both made pilgrimages to the Paris shrine for financial and moral support.

And found the French too busy with their own troubles to worry about "le Quebec libre."

But there has been more to Quebec's change of heart than de Gaulle's fall from grace. The "more" has been "Pierre power," the Trudeau take-over. Overnight it has made Ottawa, not Quebec City, the real capital, the power centre of French Canada.

Sure proof is the "repatriation" to the federal capital of a host of French Canadian and bilingual English Canadian newsmen from the provincial capital.

They were in Quebec City these past few years because, for French Canada, that's where the action was.

Now, they tell you, Ottawa is, "where it's at."

Development Programs

Industry Co-Operating with the FAO

By GENE GREGORY from Geneva

LEADING international corporations are discovering that active cooperation in United Nations development programs is good business.

Some of the world's largest food companies are applying know-how and investing large sums of money to help raise food and farm output in developing countries. Today 43 major firms representing most of the industrial countries of the world are active members of the Industry Co-Operative Program (ICP) of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO).

FAO-ICP was founded two years ago by former FAO Director General B. R. Sen of India, one of the first international civil servants to pioneer in the development of co-operation between private business and intergovernmental organizations.

He understood the contribution that private business could make to the realization of FAO objectives of improving world agricultural production, and that the key to that co-operation was demonstrating to private business that solving these problems through permanent and close co-operation can be profitable business.

Any firm engaged in the production or processing of raw materials from agriculture, including livestock, fish and forestry products as well as manufacturers of related capital equipment, is eligible for membership. Under the program members (who pay an annual $3,000 membership fee to maintain the work of the program's secretariat) undertake to assist the FAO in pre-investment surveys in developing countries. In turn, FAO-ICP projects are submitted to member firms who examine them and make recommendations as to whether and how they should be carried out.

ICP companies take a direct interest in a given project, FAO sends them with technical staffs to its headquarters and field offices. In this way the program is able to make governments aware of international industry's capabilities and seek ways to facilitate the participation of interested companies in the development process.

Among the firms participating in the program are such well-known names as Nestle and Ciba of Switzerland, Farberverke Hoechst of Germany, Unilever and Shell of Britain, Netherlands, Alfa-Laval and Swedish, Milou, Hishi Shoji of Japan, and General Foods, H. J. Heinz, International Flavors and Fragrances, National Dairy Products, Parsons and White-more, Ralston Purina and Union Carbide of the United States.

Senior executives of member companies hold periodic meetings at FAO headquarters in Rome to carry out ICP projects. At the request of governments, or with their consent, they organize FAO-industry missions to pinpoint priority projects, discuss with local government obstacles to foreign investment, and suggest ways of improving the investment climate.

Among ICP achievements during the first two years of its existence are:

1. Investments of Parsons & Whittemore in a kraft paper plant in Chile. P & W is also following up a pre-investment project in Thailand.
2. As a result of an FAO industry mission to India in 1966, the government there has agreed to accept FAO measures that could attract foreign investments in the agricultural and food-producing industries, a member firm came to agreement with the government on setting up a plant to produce pesticides.

3. H. J. Heinz Co. is providing technical and managerial assistance in the development of vegetable growing, processing and marketing in Turkey.

Based upon favorable tomato-growing conditions in the Mar-mara region of Turkey, the first processing factory of the TAT Korseve Sanayi S.A. factory will begin this year the production of tomato paste, which Heinz is considering buying in considerable quantities for its international sales network.

4. Unilever is investigating fisheries projects in Chile defined by the program, and in the Philippines the company has participated with FAO investigation of a cope-ro-processing industry.

5. Tate & Lyle Ltd. of Britain has begun consultations on the development of the sugar refining industry in Morocco.

ICP also provides valuable assistance to international corporations. Recently, France's largest milling company, Grande Mouture de Paris, submitted a comprehensive scheme for a wide-range livestock development project in Chad.

FAO-ICP was able to supply invaluable data from its own research resources and contacts with local government.

Strategic as it may seem, international business and the United Nations have a wide range of common interests and both parties seem not to know it, and in some cases are downright reluctant to recognize the fact.

Similarly, many businessmen have little more than a hazy idea of the structure of the United Nations and its specialized agencies. Few executives realize that their corporation, if it is engaged in the production of goods and services internationally, has common interest

Disasters Roost at Lloyd's

Catastrophe Central

By GENE SHERMAN from London

IF you think things are bad all over, you should check the Casualty Board at Lloyd's on an off day.

To the throng of quiet men who occupy the 44,000-square-foot Underwriting Room in Lime St., the world is an accident waiting to happen.

One recent week a ferryboat insured for $6.5 million sank in New Zealand, a plane crashed in England ($7.2 million), an anchor chain was crumpled in Japan, a truck and trailer jackknifed on a German autobahn and new riding broke out in Washington.

Altogether about 50 assorted disasters of varying severity were posted that week on the board, which is as close as you can get to Catastrophe Central.

Claims from rioting in America, France, Germany and other countries come to roost at Lloyd's like homing pigeons.

Interspersed are a few kooky claims, such as for a raindrop that fell on a day insured against rain or a hole-in-one sunk in a golf tournament.

For Lloyd's will insure anything, from Marlene Dietrich's legs to the possibility of getting hit by a satellite straying from orbit. And the nearly 6,000 members who make up the unique society of underwriters have never returned a legitimate claim.

The vast international business is based simply on their one-word motto: "Fidelity"—trust.

But even as stalwart and dedicated as an institution is Lloyd's is subject to the overpowering tides of modern growth.

Today, for the first time in 273 years, Lloyd's membership is open to foreigners. Underwriters are voted into the society under the most stringent vetting. Foreign members will have to deposit three times the $36,000 security required by British members.

Bigger risks, higher claims and higher premiums influenced the governing committee that administers the corporation to bend the tradition of exclusivity. But purists point out that the exclusivity wasn't all that tight. The man responsible for forming the office 200 years ago was a Russian Jew named John Julius Angerstein, known as the father of Lloyd's.

Angerstein got the business out of the coffeehouse in the Royal Exchange, although it retains the name of the man who encouraged his customers by catering to underwriters—Edward Lloyd.

In the 17th Century, underwriters, so named because they wrote their names under terms they agreed to guarantee individually, favored Lloyd's Coffee House in Tower St., near the Thames and only a coddle away from Lloyd's present massive headquarters.

Lloyd knew a good thing when he saw it and provided free pen, ink and paper, shipping information and even a news sheet, forerunner of dozens of publications issued by the present-day corporation.

Some years after Lloyd died, a gambling influence threatened the atmosphere of the place and a waiter was encouraged by the underwriters to open another coffeehouse for their patronage in Pope's Head Alley.

In 1771 space became a problem and Angerstein got his colleagues rooms in the Royal Exchange.

In today's bright and bustling quarters coffeehouse traditions still linger. The red-and-gold liveried staff of Lloyd's are called "waiters," for example.

A boy known as a "Kidney" who announced news of interest from a pulpit in Edward Lloyd's Coffee House is today superseded by a waiter who pages members on a microphone.

The Lutine Bell, salvaged from HMS Lutine, sunk off Holland in 1799, is still rung for important announcements—once for bad news, twice for good.

Originally devoted exclusively to maritime underwriting, Lloyd's branched out in the 1880s when it began accepting then unknown burglary and fire insurance. Lloyd's wrote the first aviation insurance in 1911. Nonmarine insurance now accounts for more than half the premium income. Three-quarters of all business is abroad, half of it in North America.

An enormous boost to Lloyd's modern reputation resulted from its performance after the 1906 San Francisco earthquake and fire.

While many American insurance companies were unable to meet claims, Lloyd's paid up in full and promptly. Its international business in the grand sense began then.

(A more recent American disaster that hit Lloyd's hard: Hurricane Betsy in 1965. One of the worst to hit the United States, it cost corporation members more than $26 million.)

Today Lloyd's shoulders risks around the world—atomic power stations insured for $12 million, $36 million worth of insurance on San Francisco's new underground system, a $60 million development in Johannesburg, the superatomic Concord, the construction of the new London Bridge, multi-million-dollar dams in Pakistan and Sierra Leone, to name only a few.

Despite its fame, a vital misconception prevails. As a government-recognized corporation, Lloyd's is a marketplace for insurance, as the stock exchange is a market for shares.

It brings together the resources of its 6,000 underwriter members, its 300 underwriting syndicates and its 220 approved brokers to accept risks.

Insurance, they keep telling you in Lime St., is placed AT Lloyd's, not WITH Lloyd's.

Just goes to show what can get started over a cup of coffee.

Dateline: Europe

Britain's Outlook

By OTTO VAN HABSBURG

ONLY nine months after the devaluation of the pound sterling, Britain again has to face growing economic difficulties. A new financial crisis, it cannot remain in dependent, expected sometime after October, has just been postponed by a massive international rescue action. Despite highly optimistic declarations this is but a temporary solution. The basic problems remain, even as the heroic decisions taken on November 19 meant only short-lived alleviation.

Great Britain loses ground steadily. If London, for instance, decided today to repay an annual £500 million of its foreign debt without borrowing anything, it would find itself in 1972 exactly at the point it was in 1964.

The financial crisis is aggravated by political elements. Mr. Wilson's government cannot risk another devaluation. This would lead almost inevitably to a rebellion within the Labor Party and the replacement of the prime minister by the chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Roy Jenkins. It is understandable that everything is undertaken in order to gain time. This is the more so, since in the present state of British public opinion, the majority cannot assume the risk of general elections, which for London to take advantage of this opportunity and to find once again the solid ground which Britain lost, when during the Suez war of 1956, its troops had to withdraw under the joint pressure of the two superpowers.

In the first place it would be imperative that London finally decide to change the pound from an international reserve currency, as established in the Bretton Woods agreements, to a normal national status. The British currency is simply too weak to play a role which obviously is beyond its means. It cannot remain in dependent, events, which take place far away from the Isles, especially in the Persian Gulf, Mr. Wilson and his collaborators have shown realism in accepting the new balance of power and re-evaluating British forces east of Suez. They should now apply the same wise policy to finances and reduce spending from an untenable world position to the perfectly defensible national level.

Once this painful but necessary adjustment is made, London will find that its relations with Europe will become much easier. Britain, financially sound and consequently economically stable, will be able to have a new start in its negotiations with the Common Market. The events which have shaken Europe this spring have changed many opinions. The advantages of continental unity are more clearly perceived than a few months ago. The number of persons who would like to see England rejoin the Continent has grown considerably. The hour thus seems to have come for London to take advantage of this opportunity and to find once again the solid ground which Britain lost, when during the Suez war of 1956, its troops had to withdraw under the joint pressure of the two superpowers.

The Story of What's Wrong

By FRANK LOWE

IT could be that the little story of what happened to the seal that swam up the St. Lawrence River to visit Sun of Expo, is the story of what is wrong with the world we live in today.

Surely you all read about the seal? I didn't see him myself, but I am told there was this seal that swam all the way up the St. Lawrence River to the Sun of Expo marina.

Once there, the seal was obviously happy. Each day he would make his appearance and romp about in the water—and the people who saw him laughed and applauded.

This went on for about three days. Then, obviously, he came to the attention of the authorities.

Someone must have said: "Hey, what's a seal doing out there in your marina?"

Mind you, that seal wasn't hurting anybody or anything. He was merely doing his thing, out there in the marina, and enjoying himself.

But apparently one can't have a happy seal swimming around loose. So the authorities sailed forth in a boat and captured the seal.

Don't get me wrong—they did not hurt the seal. But they did take him and plop him in a big tank at the aquarium there.

Now the seal has no one to applaud him as he swims about because the big tank is in the basement of the aquarium, and no people are allowed in there.

And the people have nothing to look for these days when they peer across the waters of the marina.

All of which makes me a little sad. Mainly because the saga of the seal is so much like any small saga today.

As soon as someone is doing something a little unusual—after all, what was a seal doing in the marina at Man and His World, for heavens' sake?—people stop and look.

And no sooner do they stop and look than someone, not maliciously necessarily but incredulously, has to say something—"Hey, what's a seal doing out there in your marina?"

And once this is done, the authorities have to move in. Not because anybody is doing anything wrong or harmful. Not because the law says this is a bad thing—after all, I bet there is no law saying a seal can't swim in a marina—but because we seem to have reached a point where we feel "something must be done" about it.

If it only happened when a seal appeared in a marina, well, things mightn't be so bad and dull. But it doesn't happen only to seals.

That's the pity of it all.

Solution Political Up to U.S. To End The War

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN, from Paris

The United States could end the Vietnam war tomorrow if it were prepared to make a declaration of intent guaranteeing the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam and if this declaration were believed in Hanoi.

This is the conclusion after 12 weeks of talks between the United States and North Vietnam in Paris.

The negotiations about how to implement the declaration of intent would fall into the frame of reference of the present talks, which have already dealt with political as well as military matters, and they might last a long time.

During this time, the fighting might go on for a while, and there would be widespread confusion in the ranks of both the South Vietnamese army and the Viet Cong. But the war would be ended for all essential purposes because it would have been deprived of its rationale.

It is clear to reporters who have followed the talks since their beginning and who have had numerous private conversations with members of the North Vietnamese delegation that an understanding about the political future of South Vietnam weighs far more heavily in their minds than do the military matters about which the talks were ostensibly convened.

Package Deal

Hanoi defines the purpose of the talks as the determination of the cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam.

But while the American bombing of North Vietnam goes on day after day, the North Vietnamese have gone on with the Paris talks with complete equanimity.

There is little likelihood the talks will be broken off, even if there is a sharp new round of fighting in South Vietnam.

What constitutes "determination" in their minds includes all the conditions under which such a cessation of bombing can take place. And they do mean all the conditions. They probably intend all the conditions to go into effect at the same time, rather than one by one.

This is why the North Vietnamese have shown so little interest in taking up U.S. suggestions, made as early as the second meeting, for an agreement to restore the demilitarized zone, for instance, or to respect the neutralization of Laos. They are not interested in a step-by-step trip up some garden path with the American to no one knows where.

Unrealistic View

This is why it is basically unrealistic for Washington to expect to see a unilateral pullback of North Vietnamese troops on the ground in South Vietnam.

Such a pullback could not be explained by Hanoi to its own people, to its commanders in the South and to its allies without knowing in advance what the future holds.

Especially while the bombing of North Vietnam goes on, Hanoi is in no position to make concessions to those whom it accuses publicly of "aggression."

In other words, the demand

Essential Reason

At the same time, they are realistic enough to understand that an American presence in South Vietnam, even if only a token presence, cannot be eliminated by military means at their disposal.

That is why a political settlement becomes essential. But a political settlement cannot be snatched full-grown out of thin air. It has to be negotiated, and the process of negotiating takes on a separate reality of its own and, through feedback, exerts an influence on the settlement itself.

This is the second aspect of a negotiated settlement, and it is just as important as the clauses about cease-fire, withdrawals, and so forth.

American impatience has grown as the buildup of North Vietnamese forces in the South goes on unabated.

This has apparently produced a dilemma in Washington of whether to take the risk of sitting it out, or whether to throw the first rule of oriental diplomacy to the winds, namely patience, in hopes of producing quick results.

Instead of altering either situation in its favor, the United States is now in danger of having its troops on the line sit out a mounting threat while its diplomats in Paris backtrack to make up ground lost through having thrown patience to the winds.

The political decisions Washington is so impatient to hear may be just around the corner. But it is going about hearing them in the wrong way.

Inescapable Fact

For if the onus of proof of sincerity in military matters is on North Vietnam, the onus of proof of sincerity in political matters is on the United States, and this is an inescapable fact.

The two things should not be confused. Washington may be able to badger Hanoi into taking military steps that will demonstrate a desire for de-escalation of the fighting, although this has yet to be proved. But it most certainly will not be able to badger Hanoi into political concessions through military force.

At this point, Hanoi wants nothing more than a political settlement worked out as the result of patient negotiation — preferably, it seems, on the basis of the 1954 accords, meaning a cease-fire, a provisional separation into two zones, and general elections for reunification after a period of, say, two years.

The fact that the talks in Paris have gone on for 12 weeks, and seem likely to go on indefinitely, while the bombing goes on should be adequate demonstration that the bombing is reckoned by the North Vietnamese to be the cost of their direct participation in the conflict.

As long as the actual conflict goes on, the North Vietnamese seem prepared to go on accepting the bombing.

U.S. May Move Bases From Japan to Korea

LST, from Washington

Important United States bases in Japan and Okinawa may be withdrawn to South Korea as a result of a comprehensive review of American strategic forces abroad which is due to be completed by December.

According to Japanese sources in Washington, such a decision would be dictated by two main factors—increasing agitation in Japan and Okinawa against the U.S. military presence there and the need for the U.S. to repay South Korean contributions to the war effort in Vietnam.

Super-Power Powerless

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW, from Moscow

The Soviet Union has been learning the lesson that a super-power is often powerless.

All the military and economic might of a great power cannot guarantee that its influence can be exerted beyond its own borders. Subsidizing a country does not necessarily buy its co-operation as the United States has learned.

The Soviet Union is having these facts of international political life brought home even though it has never been stronger in both industrial and military terms.

Using the Red Army, the Soviet secret police and Moscow-trained local Communists, Stalin absolutely and completely controlled East Europe.

But Tito's Yugoslavia broke free and when Stalin snapped his fingers nothing happened. Years later Albania trailed off after Communist China.

Then went Romania, which in the last four years has carved out an aggressive position of independence right on the Soviet borders. The Kremlin was incensed but impotent to control Romanian economic and foreign policy.

Now there is Czechoslovakia.

Farther afield, problems continue for the Soviet Union.

Cuba is subsidized by some $400,000,000 a year but this Soviet money does not buy influence. Worse, it is paid to an openly defiant regime that is too hot a potato to hold but too hot to drop.

While Fidel Castro is trying to foster revolutions in Latin America, the Soviet Union argues that the area is not ripe for revolution and prefers peaceful trade relations with anti-Communist governments.

More expensive is North Vietnam and the Vietnamese war, which costs the Soviet Union $1,000,000,000 or more a year in aid and handicaps Soviet domestic economic development.

The Soviets apparently are unable to translate their aid for the Communist war effort into influence. Hanoi takes the aid but pursues its own policy.

Military and economic aid is not influence in Syria, either. Since last year's Arab-Israeli war, Syria has refused to follow the Soviet line that a political rather than military solution is needed for the Middle East.

The Kremlin is in the awkward position of supplying Syria with the weapons which it fears might be used to ignite another unwanted Middle East conflagration. One of the biggest Soviet aid programs, $2,100,000,000 in economic help for India, now has been caught up in the explosive anger of a neighborhood feud.

The Soviet Union recently gave in to years of Pakistani urgings to provide some weapons for Pakistan. India thinks Pakistan wants arms only to threaten it.

Caught in the middle of this feud, just the way the United States has been in previous years, the Soviet Union is being roundly castigated in India.

Guidelines Proposed

Transplants Force Need To Define Death

By RUDY ABRAMSON, from Washington

Concerned over medical, legal, and moral issues raised by heart transplants and the ability to mechanically sustain heartbeat, a Harvard University faculty committee has proposed three new measures for defining death.

The guidelines would be used to determine when "brain death" or irreversible coma has occurred instead of using the absence of heartbeat or circulation as a definition for death.

For some years techniques have been available to restart a stalled heart or sustain it, even though irreversible brain damage has occurred. Now that it is possible to perform transplants, the heart of a donor can in some cases be kept beating until the recipient is prepared to receive it.

These developments have made it necessary to find more specific criteria for defining death.

The Harvard faculty committee, in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association, proposes these characteristics to diagnose brain death:

- A total unawareness to pain or other external stimuli. "Even the most intensely painful stimuli evoke no vocal or other response, not even a groan, withdrawal of a limb or quickening of respiration."
- A period of at least one hour during which physicians can detect no spontaneous muscular movement, breathing, or response to stimuli such as pain, touch, sound, or light.

"After the patient is on a mechanical respirator," the committee said, "the total absence of spontaneous breathing may be established by turning off the respirator for three minutes . . . and observing whether there is any effort on the part of the subject to breathe spontaneously."

● Fixed, dilated pupils which fail to respond to bright light, and the absence of other reflexes like swallowing or yawning. Also the failure to show reflexes when tapped with a reflex hammer.

In addition, the committee said, the electroencephalogram — which detects electrical activity in the brain, may be used to confirm the other indications.

Both the electroencephalograph tests and the clinical observations should be repeated at least 24 hours after the initial observations, the committee stressed.

After all of this has been done, it added, "death is to be declared and then the respirator turned off."

"The decision to do this and the responsibility for it are to be taken by the physician-in-charge, in consultation with one or more physicians who have been directly involved in the case. It is unsound and undesirable to force the family to make the decision."

The committee, chaired by Dr. Henry K. Beecher, professor of research in anesthesia at Harvard, included members from the faculties of medicine, public health, divinity, and arts and sciences.

Until recently, the committee observed, it has been accurate enough to conclude that when heartbeat and respiration stop, the brain will die in a few minutes. The heart was considered the "central organ" of the body, and its failure meant death.

"This is no longer valid when modern resuscitative and supportive measures are used. These improved activities can now restore 'life' as judged by the ancient standards of persistent respiration and continuing heartbeat. This can be the case even when there is not the remotest possibility of an individual recovering consciousness following massive brain damage."

The legal system treats death as a question which must be decided in each individual case. But the Harvard committee noted the fallacy is that "the law makes the assumption that the medical criteria for determining death are settled and not in doubt among physicians."

But it is not anymore, especially since surgeons have started performing heart transplants.

LONDON—Calvin Hoffman of Sarasota, Fla., U.S. representative of a London group called The International Shakespeare Action Committee, has arrived to open Shakespeare's grave, and prove the Bard of Avon was a phoney.

Hoffman, a writer and lecturer, subscribes to the theory that Christopher Marlowe wrote the Bard's entire output. He said he hopes to find documents in the grave that will give him his proof, but otherwise, his plan is cloaked in secrecy.

$100,000 Monday

Six Bide Time For Tax Draw

MONTREAL (CP) — Six B.C. residents were among the 17 persons from outside of Quebec province selected Monday night for a chance to win $100,000 in this city's monthly voluntary tax draw.

They are J. A. F. Jolicoeur, Vancouver; R. A. King, Castleport; and Mrs. E. Eden, New Westminster.

Mrs. L. E. Swain, Vancouver; S. J. Votto, New Westminster; Bernice Bogan, Trail, B.C.

The B.C. block was the largest among the non-Quebec entries selected at an east-end arena.

The 151 persons selected at random from among the approximately 417,000 who contributed $2 each to the scheme, designed to offset a predicted $28,000,000 budgetary deficit in fiscal 1968, will meet here Sunday for the final selection and skill-testing competition.

The final name drawn among the 151 will receive the grand prize of $100,000. If four winners based on a knowledge of Montreal are answered correctly.

The commission in a 3-to-2 vote, held that listing jobs in columns under separate male and female headings violates the 1964 Civil Rights Act because it discriminates on the basis of sex.

Help wanted advertisements in the future must be listed under occupational categories, the commission ruled.

Under the revision, job categories which obviously require one sex or the other, such as models, actors and actresses, may so state but the commission emphasized that the burden of proof that sex discrimination is necessary will be with the employer.

BUN TORTURE RACE — The Kraho Indians of Brazil run grueling races carrying logs, each weighing about 100 pounds for three miles.

Finlayson Fire Area Windy Careless Smoker Blamed

Weather forecasters offered little hope Monday to firefighters who continued to battle a 70-acre fire on the eastern slope of Finlayson Arm.

"Winds on the slope will be quite strong in the evening, and will not drop off very much," a weather office spokesman said.

About 40 men remained at the site of the fire Monday night, although the spokesman could not guess when it would be brought under control. It began Sunday evening. The fire covers approximately 70 acres in the Highland district, approximately one mile north of Mount Finlayson.

Officials believe the blaze, which was reported about 10:30 p.m. Sunday, was started by a careless smoker.

They said the fire was mainly burning among residue left after the area was selectively logged about 15 years ago.

Water bombers worked around the fire's perimeter Monday morning, but extra planes were cancelled in the afternoon.

The fire was the only large weekend blaze in the Vancouver Forest District, which includes Vancouver Island, although there were seven smaller ones.

A forest service spokesman said there were 155 fires reported throughout the province during the weekend, the majority of which were in the southern Interior.

As temperatures dropped across the Island over the weekend, forest officials said it would probably not be necessary to apply more restrictions to the current suspension of campfire permits.

Logging companies were hopeful that cooler weather would continue this week, enabling them to resume operations.

By Monday, only a few of the Island's loggers had returned to work, and most logging roads remained closed to the public.

Without CLC Directive

Labor Aids Mailmen

Unions in Greater Victoria have decided to give financial assistance to striking mail workers in the area without waiting for a directive from the Canadian Labor Congress.

Larry Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, said a number of unions had already made donations and that many others had indicated similar intentions.

Some individual unionists are doing the same. A fund for the strikers is expected to be set up officially at Wednesday night's labor council meeting.

The postal workers, idle since July 18, do not receive strike pay from their two national unions.

The men guiding almost 300 Victoria area strikers say they know of no cases of individual hardship yet, but feel the financial situation could grow serious if the strike lasts beyond the next scheduled payday. That would be about Aug. 12 or 13.

THREE DAYS

Cheques for the three days worked just before the national strike have not been claimed by any of the local strikers. They were made available last Wednesday, but the postal workers would have had to cross their own picket line at the post office to get them.

In other developments, strikers have classified as "not hot," communications to and from the Workmen's Compensation Board.

The decision meant that recipients of workmen's compensation payments were able to receive cheques Monday for the first time since the strike began.

Late Bids Taken At Luxton

Entries in this weekend's Luxton Fair horse show will be accepted until the last possible moment because of the mail strike, a spokesman for the event said Monday.

The fourth annual show opens at 7 p.m. Friday, with events featuring driving. The drivers will wear costumes of the Victorian era. Activities will continue at 8 a.m. Saturday when junior riders compete in both English and western events.

The afternoon will be devoted to English events such as jumpers, hunters and hacks, and the show will conclude Saturday evening with the western events.

Fire-Ravaged Vessel Signals Seven Dead

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — A fire-ravaged British freighter with seven persons dead aboard steamed back toward Wellington Monday with her navigation equipment destroyed, her bridge deck in ruins and after a radio blackout which kept her plight a secret for four days.

The 15,911-ton Gothia was moving at 13 knots under emergency steering control. The fire has been extinguished, reports said.

The Gothia was 300 miles off the coast before she could make faint contact with a lifeboat transmitter having a limited range.

The fire apparently broke out Thursday night, 800 miles from the New Zealand coast, as the ship headed for Liverpool from Wellington with a full cargo.

The crippled ship turned back to Wellington, but her status was not known until her emergency

Baby Food Arrives

Biafran Relief Moves Slowly

LAGOS (Reuters) — More relief supplies for Nigeria's estimated 600,000 civil war refugees arrived here Monday while Red Cross officials attempted to solve transportation problems.

A 6,185-ton British freighter, Patani, arrived with 430 tons of baby food and 10 tons of milk powder donated by British relief agencies.

Another British freighter, the 7,040-ton Pousah Bay, was expected to dock here early today.

A Canadian transport plane was scheduled to deliver 18 tons of dried fish and medical supplies.

Twenty trucks and five Land Rover vehicles from the British relief mission are still in Lagos, being fitted with wire-mesh covers.

Despite transportation difficulties, Red Cross officials said the relief operation was going well. Three relief depots have been set up, at Calabar, Asaba and Enugu, and eight medical teams are working in the field, spokesmen said.

FORMER CAPITAL

The organization Monday received two DC-4 planes which will be used to shuttle supplies to the depot at Enugu, the former Biafran capital now occupied by federal troops.

The spokesman said the Red Cross was able to transport supplies to depots, where trucks will deliver them as deeply as possible into federal-held territory ravaged by the year-old war.

Attendance Drop At Regatta?

KELOWNA (CP) — An official of the 62nd annual Kelowna Regatta says he expects an attendance drop at the event, which opens Wednesday, because of reports of pollution in Okanagan lakes.

"Newspaper stories about the poor condition of Lake Skaha affect the whole Okanagan," said Murray Joyce, chairman of the four-day regatta.

Lake Skaha is south of Penticton where the city's Peach Festival ended at the weekend with a drop in attendance.

HONORED GUESTS

Meanwhile, regatta organizers have managed to sidestep a ruling that required honored guests to pay $1 admission and $1 parking fees.

Passes for this year's show were abolished to meet higher costs but guest admissions will be paid by a group of anonymous donors, Mr. Joyce said.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson are among the 110 guests. The regatta is expected to attract 28,000 paid customers.

The regatta will open with a parade and a display by the Red Knight, the Canadian Forces aerobatic act.

Other events include swimming and water ski championships and hydroplane racing.

500,000 Flee Monsoon Rain

CALCUTTA (AP) — A second wave of monsoon rains in India's Bihar state has driven 500,000 people from their homes, official reports say. Seven rivers overflowed their banks and flooded 400 square miles of countryside, including vast wheat and jute farms.

Campbell Opposing Winter Works Cut

British Columbia indicated Monday it is anxious to head off any move by Ottawa to change or drop entirely the federal provincial winter works program scheduled to begin late this fall.

In a telegram to Manpower Minister Allan MacEachern, the provincial government officials requested that the program be continued for the winter of 1968-69.

Municipal Affairs Minister Don Campbell also asked that the program not be abandoned in future until a federal-provincial conference has been held to draw up a substitute program.

An official in the municipal affairs department indicated the telegram is a move to forestall any plans the federal government might have to abandon or modify the program.

At a federal-provincial conference on winter works held last summer, the official noted, Ottawa said it was considering abandoning the program, designed to provide jobs during the winter seasonal employment slump, but promised full consultation with the provinces.

There has been no word yet of such a conference this summer.

Last winter the program provided 198,570 man-days of work in B.C. municipalities, compared to 277,897 the previous year. The drop prompted Mr. Campbell to criticize the federal government for reducing its level of aid under the program.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Millionaire brewer and contractor Ben Ginter says he's thinking seriously of packing up his beer cans, pulp and paper assets and printing company and moving out of the province.

"I've decided I'm going to close down my operations and move to some other province where they appreciate guys like me," Mr. Ginter said in an interview today.

"The unions are squeezing me one way and the province is squeezing me the other. It's no good any more. I'm going."

He has a heavy construction company he conservatively values at $12,000,000 employing more than 500 persons.

He owns a $1,000,000 brewery in this central B.C. city that was the first to introduce canned beer in the province.

Mr. Ginter has a part-interest in a $100,000,000 pulp mill being built at Kitimat and a lucrative printing company producing a popular weekly newspaper in Prince George.

He also has 900 acres of prime land in a Prince George suburb, a series of companies established to prospect and develop mines in the northern interior, and a 90-acre Hereford cattle and Arabian horse ranch that contains a $250,000 house and a 75,000 stable.

Lately, he said he has had a frustrating time with the construction company and the brewery—a union dispute ended with the loss of a $3,000,000 contract, and he lost a battle with the government when it forced him to raise his beer prices.

Mr. Ginter claimed the provincial government also owes him more than $2,000,000 on highway contracts dating back as far as six years.

"I feel really let down with the government's attitude," he said. "It's time for a change in government. It would appear they're all tarred with the same brush. They're not interested

Housing Suggestion

B.C.'s Proposal Out—for Now

A solution proposed by British Columbia for Canada's housing problem failed to win support of the provincial premiers — this time, Minister without Portfolio Grace McCarthy said here Monday.

The minister, just back from Saskatchewan where she represented the province at the annual premiers' conference, said the B.C. resolution on housing was withdrawn after other representatives said the subject would be dealt with fully next year.

HOME POSSIBLE

Mrs. McCarthy said the resolution called for action by the federal government to allow 30-year National Housing Act mortgages on older homes, up to 20 years old, for 90 per cent of their value.

She said this would make it possible for those who now cannot afford to buy a new home to purchase an existing one, while those selling older homes would have the cash to move into bigger and newer homes.

SOUND DEVELOPMENT

"This would help the whole economy through construction and employment," said Mrs. McCarthy. "It would increase the inventory of homes and enable thousands more in Canada to purchase a home, and in placing emphasis on home ownership we now (would have) sound community development as opposed to public-subsidized units."

She said the formula proposed by B.C. would enable a family living on $3,900 a year to purchase its own home with a $1,500 down payment. (On a $15,000 older home, she explained later, payments including taxes amounting to $117 a month meet the required 30 per cent of income ceiling, adding, "Therefore the family earning $3,900 per year could handle this.")

HELLYER TRIP

Mrs. McCarthy said she is hopeful that several provinces would support the B.C. stand when Transport Minister Paul Hellyer makes a trip across Canada this fall to study the housing situation.

"I'm very pleased with the interest and reception given to the formula I proposed, and I believe it will result in nationwide support," she said.

In another printed report on the premier's conference held at Waskesiu, Sask., last Thursday and Friday, Mrs. McCarthy said she assisted representatives of Alberta and Prince Edward Island in drawing up resolutions on pollution control and alcoholism and drugs.

B.C.'s position, said Mrs. McCarthy, is that it is essential for Canada to establish national guidelines for pollution. This was adopted by the conference, which also went along with her suggestion that Resources Minister Ray Wiliston collect the views of all the provinces and present them to Ottawa.

The conference called for the provinces on the growing problem of addiction to alcohol and drugs in Canada, she said, and agreed to ask provincial health ministers to give the subject high priority on the agenda of their next meeting.

Victoria Loses Out

Tourists See More But Spend Less

Victoria has had more visitors this year than ever before, but tourist spending is down, according to people in the industry.

Border crossings into British Columbia are up 18 per cent over the record 1967 season, and in the Victoria area the influx of tourists is higher by 6,000, according to customs authorities.

However, local businessmen say that retailers are not doing proportionately more business.

QUICK LOOK ONLY

"People are coming to look and not buy," said one store manager.

One hotel operator said they come to take a quick look around and then leave.

Kenneth King, manager of the Douglas Hotel, believes the industry goes through a slump every four years.

"I think it is the presidential elections. Americans are more interested in politics than ever before. With two conventions, they want to get home and see the political situation straightened out."

In any event, added Mr. King, many are staying for only one night.

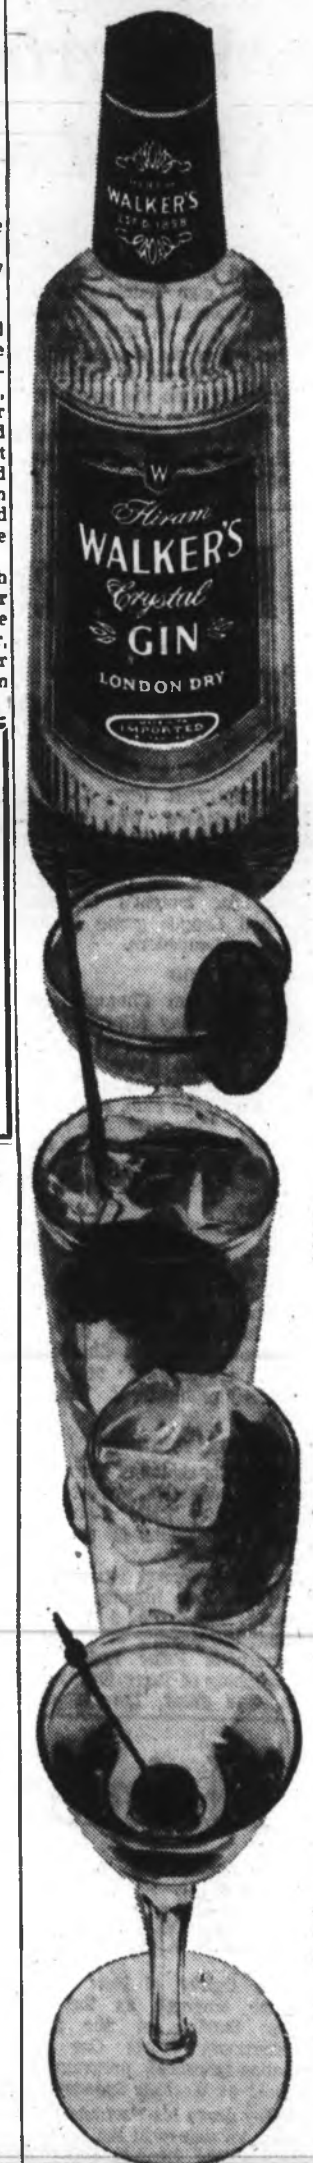

Officials of bus lines support this view.

However, some operators are happy.

Manager of the Butchart Gardens, Walter Dodsworth, said more than 1,500 people a

Supreme Court:

Supermarket Depends On Saanich Decision

The building of a supermarket by Kelly Douglas on the south-east corner of McKenzie and Quadra depends on approval by Saanich of a subdivision plan, a Supreme Court judgment stated Monday.

Mr. Justice P. D. Seaton ruled Kelly Douglas is entitled to seek approval of the plan by Saanich. Subject to this approval, he said, an agreement between Kelly Douglas and North Quadra Florist and Garden Centre, 3995 Quadra, should be carried out.

The wholesale grocery firm had claimed the North Quadra company agreed to subdivide its three-acre property and sell a large part of it.

It had planned to build its largest supermarket in Greater Victoria, and operate it in conjunction with the florist and garden centre. In its court action, Kelly Douglas asked that North Quadra either carry out the agreement or pay damages for breach of contract.

Mr. Justice Seaton found Kelly Douglas entitled to the judgment on its claim for specific performance of the agreement.

Slaying Suspects Getting Counsel

Two men charged with the non-capital murder of William Bruce van Munster will be represented by lawyers at the preliminary hearing, Central Magistrate's Court was told Monday.

Cecil Branson appeared Monday on behalf of Frederick James Morry, 28, and court was told that counsel for the other accused, Garry Hugh McWhirter, 24, would be appointed next week.

Both men were remanded to Aug. 13 to have a date set for the preliminary hearing. Flanked by two Saanich constables, they had nothing to say. They are charged with the

Offender Flees Prison

Police are searching for a 44-year-old man, under preventive detention for sex offences, who escaped Sunday morning from the William Head minimum security prison.

Joseph Kenneth Pitt is not dangerous, according to prison officials. He was found to be missing at 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

He is described as being six feet tall, weighing 175 pounds, with greying black hair. He has hazel eyes and a scar over his left eye.

Pitt was wearing blue trousers, brown sweater, white shirt and running shoes when last seen.

Fish Derby

Junior Badge Needed

An estimated 600 youngsters are expected to take part in the junior fishing derby at Ogden Point breakwater Friday.

Registration must be made at Eaton's before Friday and a junior fishing derby badge must be worn on derby day.

Fish taken on the breakwater between 1 and 4 p.m. Friday, with the exception of squid and starfish, will be eligible for consolation prizes. Boys and girls, 16 and under, are eligible.

Prizes are a portable record player, complete swim set of mask, fins and snorkel, and a fishing rod with reel.

The weigh-in station in the middle of the breakwater will record all catches. City parks department supervisors will assist Eaton's staff.

No boats, floats or rafts are allowed. All fishing must be done from the breakwater.

holding of Mr. van Munster March 15. The body of Mr. van Munster was found by police July 27 off Prospect Lake Road.

A policeman escorting a prisoner Saturday night into the cells at the Saanich police station noticed a piece of red cloth hanging from a cell bar. He investigated and found Gordon Robert Sillars, 33, hanging by his neck by his shirt, his legs tucked under him.

FOR REPORT

Sillars, 711 Johnson, pleaded guilty to attempting to commit suicide and was remanded to today for a doctor's report.

Insp. John Post said a minor fire broke out at Saanich home Saturday night shortly after Sillars had arrived there intoxicated. When firemen and policemen arrived, Sillars had left.

PURPLE FACE

Insp. Post and Sillars returned about an hour later and was placed in the Saanich cells for safekeeping. Fifteen minutes later, he was discovered hanging.

"He was purple in the face, breathing slightly and unconscious," Insp. Post said.

Sillars was taken to hospital by Saanich ambulance. He said the following day he was unable to remember anything after 3 p.m. Saturday, court was told.

Four hours in the city lockup improved the memory of Robert Travis, 19, of CFB Esquimalt.

Travis pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor and court was told he had the liquor with him in Burnaby. Magistrate William Ostler asked Travis where he got the liquor. "I can't remember," said Travis.

JAIL REMINDER

Magistrate Ostler: "Do you think if you spent a night in jail you might remember?"

Travis said he could not remember and was remanded to 2:15 p.m.

At that time he told the magistrate he had asked a person in front of a liquor store to buy the liquor for him. He said he didn't know why he had not volunteered the information in the morning, and apologized. He was fined $35.

Harold Johnston, 2612 Douglas, was fined $350 and prohibited from driving for four months when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. He was also fined $25 for not having a driver's licence.

Joano Carreiro, 3330 Glasgow, was fined $150 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident and $35 for careless driving. He pleaded guilty and court was told he struck a car parked Sunday night in the 1100 block Fort. His licence was suspended.

David Hansen, 18, 1062 Gridstream, was fined $35 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

King Fisherman Contest

Salmon River Yields Husky Tyee

The tyee salmon are just arriving at Salmon River and among the earliest fishermen to find them was Dr. Phil Pacheco of Paradise, Calif., who took a 38½-pounder out the boom pool by casting with a green buzz bomb.

He also took coho weighing 10.6 and 11.3 pounds and Dolly Varden weighing 2½ and one pounds from the same pool on buzz bomb and weighed them in at Paul Despins' Salmon River Resort.

MUCHALAT IMPROVES

Victorians again hit into the tyee salmon in Muchalat Inlet and have brought back reports that a good run seems to be heading toward Gold River.

Coho lead in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest has been taken by W. Boothroyd with a 15.1-pounder who took on a hooky hooky while fishing in Barkley Sound, off Bamfield.

POSITIVE IDENTIFICATION

King Fisherman anglers are reminded that positive proof of identification by a fisheries officer must be submitted along with a picture for any coho entered this month weighing 15 pounds or more.

Otherwise the entry may be disqualified — and the same ruling will apply to unusually big fish entered as steelhead.

Gunfire from Car's Back Seat

Shots Kill Negroes, Hurt Officers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two police officers were shot and critically wounded and three Negro suspects were killed during an exchange of gunfire Monday afternoon.

A fourth suspect fled and was being sought by police. He was reportedly armed with a pistol.

The wounded officers were identified as Rudy Limas, 25, and Norman Roberge, 29.

The policemen said they were following the suspects' car when it pulled into a service station and two of the occupants got out.

The officers approached the car to investigate and they were fired upon by two men sitting in the rear seat.

Limas was wounded in the legs, but managed to empty his service revolver at the suspects as he fell to the ground. Roberge was hit in the groin, right hand and lower chest.

The shootings occurred in a predominantly Negro section of the city, about five miles from downtown Los Angeles and five miles from Watts where Negro rioting erupted in August, 1965. Monday's violence coincided with the opening of the annual Watts festival — in which residents of Watts stage cultural, recreational and business events.

B.C. Crash Kills Loughheed

Colorful Sidney Pilot Flew in Spanish War

INVERMERE, B.C. — A colorful flying career that spanned 40 years of war and peace ended near here Sunday when a plane piloted by Jim Loughheed of Sidney crashed into the side of a hill and burned.

Mr. Loughheed, who had been a bush pilot in the true tradition, as well as a decorated war pilot, was the only casualty in a crash that occurred during a thunderstorm as his amphibious Norseman was taking off from Windermere Lake.

His three passengers, including his son, Ray, escaped with nothing more than a shaking.

The four were on a pleasure trip to Fortress Lake, 320 miles east of Vancouver.

The pilot was trapped in the burning aircraft.

Jim Loughheed flew in 1928 as one of the original pilots for Canadian Airways Service between Victoria and Vancouver.

In 1930 he went to Edmonton as a bush pilot. He flew for Emperor Haile Selassie in the Ethiopian-Italian War and for General Franco in the Spanish Civil War.

He was a transport flyer with the RCAF during the Second World War and among his passengers were the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

After the war Mr. Loughheed took part in Polar expeditions. While flying privately, he had worked for the B.C. Forest Service at Salmo, just south of Nelson.

He organized the West Kootenay Flying Club and did considerable flying in Alberta.

He was the eldest grandson of the late Sen. Sir James Loughheed and Lady Loughheed. Surviving are his wife, Dorothy, four children, and two brothers, William and Norman of Victoria.

Breakup of Scorpion Claimed in Magazine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy declines to confirm or deny a report that top-secret listening devices recorded the sound of the ocean crushing the nuclear submarine Scorpion about May 21.

The Pentagon issued a "no comment" Sunday to the report published in Newsweek magazine.

Pentagon sources confirmed that the navy ordered a check of tape after the Scorpion failed to return on schedule from a cruise, but declined to discuss any phase of its analysis.

The navy has several devices for monitoring underwater traffic, using them mainly to keep track of Soviet submarines. It has extended official condolences to the families of the Scorpion's 99 crew members.

The search for the vessel now is centred in a "highly suspect" area about 450 miles southwest of the Azores where ocean depths run to 12,000 feet.

Florida Police Worried

Negro Republicans Ask Louder Voice

Stassen Supporters Drastically Reduced

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Angered by the large number of all-white delegations, Negro Republicans decided Monday to push hard on the floor of the national convention for a much larger voice in Republican affairs.

The National Council of Concerned Afro-American Republicans, a month-old group that includes many of the Negro delegates, said it will ask for 10 at-large Negro members to be added to the Republican national committee, and for a rule preventing the seating in 1972 of delegations that do not have a proportionate number of Negroes.

It was the most significant protest action on the first day of a convention acutely conscious of possible demonstrations.

LAWYER ON HAND

Police were so concerned that a Florida assistant state attorney cruised Convention Hall in a golf cart to hand down instant legal opinions to the dozens of club-toting policemen patrolling the five-foot fence and picket areas.

Thurman L. Dodson, a Washington, D.C., lawyer serving as national chairman of the all-Negro group, said one of the Negro committeemen should be first national vice-chairman.

ALL THREE

He also said the group, which is not committed to any candidate, had asked all three major Republican presidential candidates and the largest state delegations for their support.

Dodson conceded that an attempt by the Florida and Louisiana representatives of his group to bar the seating of their states' all-white delegations has almost no chance of succeeding.

TYPE OF PEOPLE

But he and Florida representative Ike Williams, also a lawyer, agreed that they are worried about the type of people the Republican party seems to be attracting in the South.

Florida Governor Claude Kirk said in his welcoming speech Monday the Democrats no longer have a sure grip on the South. But Dodson and Williams see right-wing, segregationist Democrats as the main converts to Republicanism, and these, said Dodson, "the Republican party should not welcome."

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The delegate strength of perennial presidential candidate Harold Stassen at the Republican convention has been cut in half.

College student Paul Walter, 21, a delegate from Ohio, said he was switching from the former Minnesota governor to Governor James Rhodes of Ohio. But J. Robert Stassen of Minnesota, nephew of Harold, said he will stick with his uncle for six or seven ballots.

Hour-Long Event

Humphrey, McCarthy Will Debate on TV

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Negotiators for Vice-President Hubert Humphrey and Senator Eugene McCarthy tentatively agreed Monday to a 60-minute debate between the two during the weekend before the Democratic national convention.

Humphrey aides said the debate will be held either Aug. 23 or 24. The three television networks—NBC, CBS and ABC—have been notified of the tentative agreement.

They said it would be a one-hour debate with three segments devoted to domestic problems, foreign affairs and the concept of the presidency.

A different moderator will be used for each segment. But the candidates will be able to debate directly if they wish.

Man of Letters Loses by Guns

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — A man from Las Vegas who had been sending "goofy" letters to Nevada Governor Paul Laxalt showed up at the governor's hotel with a rifle and a pistol wrapped in brown paper, Laxalt's press secretary said Monday. The man was taken into custody. However, all local law enforcement agencies denied any knowledge of the matter.

Press secretary Ed Allison said Laxalt saw the man at the hotel headquarters for the Nevada delegation to the Republican convention when he checked in Saturday night, then warned the hotel management the caller might be dangerous.

Allison said the man had been sending Laxalt "loopy" letters for about eight months. He said the letters were not threatening.

You can't send the kid up in a crate like that! But they did. The bush pilots who opened up our north country flew in open cockpits with rain in the face and wind whining in the struts. After a trip like that, they were ready for a brew like Old Style. Today it's still slow-brewed the natural way, for men who appreciate a down-to-earth flavour.

Signal of the Caesars UVic Guidebook Link

When the University of Victoria students' academic guidebook appears sometime next week, it will carry on its cover a centuries-old sign of dissent.

Two fists, one showing

"thumbs up" and the other "thumbs down," will be the decoration. The signals date from the days of the Roman arena when a gladiator's life could be spared by the Caesar's "thumbs up" sign.

The symbolism is appropriate, thinks editor Bob Higinbotham, a second-year arts student. University of Victoria students are hoping that the guidebook may influence the administration of the university to take another look at some professors who have slipped up in their teaching.

The guidebook consists of student evaluations of the courses offered by the university, collected from questionnaires distributed last March by student volunteers.

This is the second year that the Alma Mater Society of the university has sponsored a large-scale attempt to help students choose their courses.

The idea of the guidebook has been better received this year than last year, according to Mr. Higinbotham. Only two professors objected to their classes being evaluated, and the general response to the book was much less suspicious.

Bricklayers Strike Two Sites

Some 25 Victoria bricklayers have taken strike action against contractors at two building projects and there is a possibility other sites may become involved.

The strike, which began Monday, is confined at the moment to the federal forestry laboratory off Burnside, and a Sooke school.

The Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union is seeking a standard contract throughout B.C. Present wage of the union's striking local in Victoria is $4 an hour. Bricklayers outside Victoria will earn $4.77 an hour during the life of a two-year agreement.

Jubilee Planning Tender Call For Laboratory

Royal Jubilee Hospital expects to call tenders within a week for a major addition to its laboratory, a spokesman said Monday.

Bids for the project, expected to cost about $600,000, will probably be due Sept. 13.

The main phase of the work will involve the addition of a fifth floor to the hospital's south block. The laboratory has been desperately short of space as its workload has increased between 12 and 20 per cent each year.

Royal Jubilee has had the approval of the provincial government and regional hospital board — both of which will share in the cost of the project — for the tender call.

The bid will also have to be acceptable to those agencies.

Board Debates 'Free' School Next Week

By BILL STAVDAL

A formal proposal for an unorthodox "free" high school will be made to the Greater Victoria school board next week.

Two trustees, chairman Peter Bunn and John Porteous, expressed sympathy for the idea at a Monday meeting attended by nearly 60 teenagers and adults.

Mr. Bunn hinted that space for the school might be available at the Institute of Adult Studies.

STUDENT DEMAND

The meeting was called by Paul LeBaron, 324 Stanward, in response to what he said was a demand by students. About one-third of those present were older adults; the youngsters ranged in age from about 14 to 20.

Mrs. Joan Schwartz, a former teacher at Craigdarroch School, outlined to the school trustees what a free school would be.

LARGE SAY

"It's not a free-for-all school," she said. "It's a school in which students have a very large say in their curriculum, how they study and when they study."

Students would consult teachers as resource persons, not as authorities, she said.

"It's not a place where kids come to fool around."

TUITION FEES

Both Mrs. Schwartz and Mr. LeBaron said students in a free school would have to be screened. Tuition fees would be required.

Mr. Bunn told the meeting regulations at the Institute of Adult Studies have been tightened up this summer because of irresponsible behaviour last winter by students who switched from the regular high schools.

"SOFT TOUCH"

"Kids were going into the institute because they thought it was a soft touch," he said.

One young teen-age boy said: "A free school to me is a place where I can educate myself. It's a place where nobody can tell me how to think and how to dress."

Mr. Bunn and Mr. Porteous, though agreeing a free school could be a worthwhile experiment, challenged some of the criticism aimed at the public schools.

"There are a great many young people who do need to be taught how to think," said Mr. Porteous.

WITHIN SYSTEM

He also rejected the concept of "an exclusive private school" within the public school system.

Mr. Bunn remarked: "This is the first time in history that education has been

Committee Regains Bowker Issue

The question of culverting Bowker Creek was bounced back to the public works committee Monday night by Saanich council but not before it agreed to pay part of the cost of a fence on Richmond elementary and St. Patrick's school grounds.

In other business council decided:

● To call a public hearing on a rezoning application that would clear the way for a $1,700,000 shopping centre at Shelbourne and Ruby Road.

● Decided to get further information before issuing a permit for a resident to keep a cat that chirps like a bird.

SIMMERING

The Bowker Creek question has been simmering ever since a petition from 800 residents asked Saanich to culvert the creek in the Richmond elementary school grounds.

The petition claimed that 500 children were in danger because of deep water and a steep ditch as well as possible falls and skin irritation from slippery green slime in the ditch.

Parents voiced strongly their opposition to a fence because they claimed it would be a waste of taxpayers' money as well as an accident hazard and would not do anything to enlarge the school's playing field space.

FENCE SUGGESTED

Monday night, a letter from Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn was read in which he suggested that a fence be built on cost-sharing basis. He said chain-mail fence 10 feet high and 700 feet long could be built for $10,500.

Information from municipal engineer Neville Life indicated only 600 feet of fence was needed and could be built 10 feet high for $5,100 and six feet high for $4,000.

Aid. Leslie Passmore said council didn't buy the property or put up the school. The board acted in full knowledge that Bowker Creek ran through the property and, therefore, should pay for whatever was done.

REZONING BID

Victoria lawyer Lloyd McKenzie spoke on his application for rezoning five acres on the west side of Shelbourne Street, north of Ruby, for the University Heights Shopping Centre Ltd.

An adjoining 5.5 acres was rezoned last year for the shopping centre. The new enlarged site would accommodate an 84,000-square-foot K-Mart department store in addition to the originally-planned Canada Safeway store of 23,000 feet. There would also be 15 satellite shops. Developers are Jack Aceman & Associates of Vancouver.

K-Mart is an offshoot of S. S. Kresge Co. Ltd., which in the last six years has opened 200 such stores in Canada and the U.S. They have been likened to the Woolco units of Woolworth's.

REPORTS READ

Reports from Saanich planning department and Saanich Advisory Planning Commission were read to council.

They dealt with ingress and egress, landscape screens, and other conditions at some length. The two reports differed so much that Mayor Curtis said he wondered if the two bodies had even talked to each other.

"I think we had better have them meet to resolve the points of issue," he said.

HEARING PLANNED

Council voted to call a public hearing after the differences had been ironed out.

Ross Morris, who runs Safari Land at 900 Government, requested a permit to keep his pet cheetah at his home in Saanich, at 638 Ridgebank Crescent.

In a long letter, he explained that it was his personal pet, was seven months old and had been in his possession since shortly after it was born. The cheetah is the size of a small dog, he said, is trained on a leash and spends every day from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. at Safari Land.

AVOID TROUBLE

It is the most amiable-natured of all larger cats, has the advantage of great speed and can, therefore, avoid trouble. It could never be accused of being noisy because its predominant sound is a loud purr, but at times it chirps like a bird and sounds like a large canary.

As a former Vancouver police officer and the father of a young child, Mr. Morris said he was well qualified to look after the animal and to make sure it didn't get into trouble. He said in his business, nothing was left to chance.

A report from development engineer Joe Barber-Smirley said it might be difficult to convince nearby residents that a permit should be given for "such an exotic and unfamiliar pet."

Council decided to request the poundkeeper to canvas the neighborhood for reaction and to ask the SPCA for information on the care, feeding and housing of cheetahs to ascertain if it was being correctly cared for.

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

The new swimming pool out at the Racquet Club is one of the most popular places in town these summer days. But last weekend it had to share honors with the indoor skating rink as more than 150 skaters moved in to take part in the B.C. Summer Invitational Championships.

I went out late Sunday afternoon to present the Ontario trophy to the team winning the highest aggregate. Last year's winner, Lakewood Summer School from Tacoma, were again in the top spot and took home the trophy.

Victoria's Heather Fraser, looking most attractive in a colorful pink skating suit, took the individual honors by winning three firsts and two trophies.

90th Birthday Aug. 19

It is just under two weeks before Welsh-born Mrs. Mary Ann Lewis will be celebrating a real milestone — her 90th birthday.

Until last Christmas, Mrs. Lewis maintained her own apartment, doing everything for herself. Now she lives with her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Morgan at 171 George Road West.

Extremely active all her life until a few months ago, Mrs. Lewis flew by herself back to South Wales for her 85th birthday and two years ago she went with Mrs. Morgan on a 6,000 mile motor trip. First to Toronto to see a new great-grandchild, take in the Star Festival and on to Chicago and Cedar Rapids in Iowa before returning.

True to her Welsh descent, Mrs. Lewis has always been a great music lover with singing always part of her life. A devout Victoria West United Church member, Mrs. Lewis sang in the choir for many years.

Gala Republican Party Akin to Inaugural Ball

By HELEN THOMAS

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Republicans earned $1,000,000 Sunday night for their campaign at a party whose mood was so exuberant it could have been an inaugural ball. About 2,500 guests paid $500 each to attend the gala in the three-quarter of an acre ballroom of the hotel Fontainebleau.

For their money, they got the chance to kiss Happy Rockefeller — and scores seemed to do it — shake hands with Texas oilman H. L. Hunt, exchange smiles with the Reagans, chat with John Wayne, watch David Eisenhower dance with Julie Nixon and eat a canteen filled with tropical fruit, boned breast of capon, artichoke bottoms with asparagus tips, baby carrots, continental rice, salad and a "frozen Florida orange surprise."

The guests passed Kleig lights and television cameras to enter. They didn't seem to mind.

Inside, the atmosphere was bubbly and optimistic. The Rockefeller were early arrivals. Mrs. Rockefeller wore a simple, ruffled yellow linen dress. She said she was enjoying the convention but never could find a moment to change clothes.

Next came Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan, encircled by Secret Service agents. Mrs. Reagan wore a short dress of white organdy with white applique flowers.

The Richard Nixon's were not here but their daughters, Julie, 20, and Tricia, 22, represented the family. Julie, accompanied by young Eisen-

Pool Fun for Family —And They Prove It

TORONTO (CP) — William (Scotty) Krachen, 63, is head of what he believes is the only family in Canada with a grandmother, grandfather and daughter who play pool.

He and his wife Georgina, 61, and their 24-year-old daughter Margaret can be found almost any day of the week helping to make their Toronto pool hall a family sort of place.

Mr. Krachen says he's the best pool player in the family, but admits daughter Margaret is "a beautiful player."

Regulars at the pool hall consider a game with Mrs. Krachen a challenge.

The Krachens are sympathetic with youngsters and often sponsor tournaments for them. Because of the family atmosphere, a father-son game is not rare sight in the Krachen pool room.

As president of the Canadian Billiard League, Mr. Krachen is especially interested in promoting the game among women. A devoted player since the age of 12, Mr. Krachen now teaches a class of 15 women, including one 65-year-old who is learning the game in order to beat her husband.

Daughter Margaret, a hospital worker, will soon compete in the Toronto women's pool championship. "There isn't another woman player in Toronto who can touch her," Mr. Krachen says proudly.

Ann Landers

Woman Treats Whales

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Roberta Hartman is a veterinarian for killer whales, treating mammals at the Vancouver public aquarium.

She tended Skana, a 15-foot-long killer whale.

"They jerk when they are injected the same as we do," she said, "but once they are out of the water they are quite docile."

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago I awakened at about 2 a.m. with a headache. I went to the bathroom to get an aspirin and fell. I was sure I had broken my shoulder. My husband telephoned his young cousin who has just started to practise medicine. He came right over and said he didn't think it was a fracture but advised me to get X-rays the next morning. He gave me a sleeping pill.

I had the X-rays taken and there was no fracture. This morning I received a bill for the X-rays ($35.00) and a bill from my husband's cousin for $15. I don't mind the bill for the X-rays but I do feel this young doctor has a nerve charging me $15 for a sleeping pill. Had we known he was going to charge we would have called our regular family doctor. We just wanted to give the lad a break and help him get some practical experience. Were we wrong? — TENNESSEE

Dear Tenn: Just what kind of a break is it for a doctor (young or old) to make a house call at 2 a.m. for a six? Doctors get plenty of practical experience taking care of fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, nieces, nephews, and grandparents for free — not to mention charity cases and clinic patients. Internship also offers a world of free experience, particularly the odd-hour variety.

Pay the bill and do your cousin a favor by not giving him any more breaks in the middle of the night.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow who has been keeping steady company with a fine man. His children are grown and married and they seem to be intelligent, fine people. The man is nice looking and a neat dresser. He would be a lot better looking, however, if he did something about his teeth that are missing.

Ann, I can't understand how a person can ignore three large holes right in the front of his mouth. It seems to me that one of his children would say something to him. Since they seem not to notice, should I mention it? Or should I concentrate on his good qualities and not risk offending him? — A.D.

Dear A.D.: Speak up. There is more involved here than looks. This man needs dental attention and if you can prod him toward it, you will be doing him an enormous favor. The reason most toothless folks do not seem to notice what is so obvious to others is that they are afraid to go to a dentist. They need someone to help them get there. Be the one.

Dear Ann Landers: For the past eight months I have been going with a fellow who is just too good and too nice and too

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but it is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.

Get 2nd Debut with CEP 600 or CEP 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

Gaetan Came Home for Coffee

By KARIN MOSER

MONTREAL (CP) — "Gaetan came home today. He came home for a cup of coffee! But I didn't cry, I didn't cry... I'm not the type..."

The excited voice belonged to Claire Paris, wife of Canada's second heart transplant patient whose health has been improving steadily since his operation June 28, 39 days ago.

"I got a call from the heart institute," Mrs. Paris said in an interview Monday, "and before I knew it, I was meeting him at the door. He said he came home to have a cup of coffee,

"So I made him a cup of coffee and he stayed for about a half hour and then went back to the hospital."

The visit came unexpectedly after Dr. Pierre Grondin, who performed the operation, said last week Mr. Paris would remain in hospital for at least "another four weeks."

Last Tuesday Dr. Grondin, who had just returned from a conference of heart transplant surgeons in Cape Town, South Africa, said:

"We are going to look at Mr. Paris' home and make possible suggestions to Mrs. Paris as to

Loyalty by Deeds Urged on Czechs

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin said Monday it expects reformist Czechoslovakia to match its stated loyalty to orthodox communism with deeds.

Sovereign Biafra Defended

From AP-Reuters

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (CP) — The chief Biafran delegate to peace talks with Nigeria rejected Monday the idea of secessionist Biafra renouncing its sovereignty.

Lt.-Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu said at the opening session of the talks: "Against all this background of suspicion, hate, conflict, and war our survival cannot be separated from the sovereign independence of our state."

Renunciation of Biafran sovereignty is the prime condition set by the Nigerian federal government for the start of negotiations to end the civil war which started 14 months ago when Biafra seceded from the Nigerian federation.

As he opened the session, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia told the Nigerian and Biafran delegates:

"You must succeed, there is no alternative."

Leaders of both delegations expressed optimism.

The problem — like so many others — revolves around the national mail strike.

But, just the same, Mrs. Kelly has the feeling a signed agreement is a signed agreement.

The Kelly story — the post office here says there are many others like it — goes like this: Because they were expecting cheques in the mail and they were going to be out of the city for a month on holidays, they decided the best protection against possible theft would be to leave the mail at the post office. Thus the necessary card was signed.

Much of the long holiday was spent in the United States, where there was little news of the impending Canadian mail strike.

When the Kellys heard at last that the strike seemed a certainty, they sent a telegram from North Dakota to a Victoria friend, authorizing him to pick up the mail.

Mr. Kelly said the telegram was sent July 17, the day before the strike, and that he was told it would take about 45 minutes to reach its destination.

LATE WIRE

But the friend didn't get the wire until late the next day, and by then the strike was on.

The Kellys asked pickets if they could enter the post office for their mail, and were told they could. They told their story to Gerry Kenny, one of the local strike leaders, and said he also agreed that they could cross the picket line.

But inside the post office, members of the supervisory staff said they couldn't sort letters to look for the Kelly mail. It would mean they were doing work normally done by the men on strike. They had been instructed not to do this, they said.

MP STYMIED

David Anderson, MP-elect for Esquimalt-Saanich, who was called by the Kellys, said Monday night that there didn't appear to be anything that could be done.

"They (the post office) tell me there are 150 to 400 cases like this," he said.

A post office spokesman here, Kenneth Stofor, said orders to refrain from handling out mail after the strike began came from postal authorities at Ottawa.

In addition, he said, the Postal Officers Association, which covers supervisory staff, had also decided against doing regular postal work.

This was to try to ensure as little disharmony as possible where the strike was concerned, he said.

CASE RESTS

And there the case rests.

Everyone concerned feels sorry for the Kellys and others like them. But they say there is nothing they can do.

This does nothing to ease the situation for the Kellys, who were counting on mailed cheques for important payments they say they have to make.

The next step seems to be theirs. And as one post office spokesman who doesn't want to be named, said:

"It would be interesting to see what would happen if they took action against us."

Two Women Discharged

Mrs. Lillian Lebutt, 1340 Sussex, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital and Mrs. Geraldine Anne Fenness, 5011 Wesley, was discharged after being treated for minor abrasions following an accident involving two cars on the Patricia Bay Highway in Central Saanich Monday evening. Mrs. Lebutt was the driver of one car.

"Why from Lemon Hart & Sons of London, who can be counted on to produce a White Demerara Rum unique in all the world."

"Lemon Hart White is so versatile it's delicious with soda water and a slice of lemon or lime. It makes a superb Daiquiri, is perfect with tonic water or fruit juice, and is actually so smooth many people enjoy it as a liqueur."

Jubilee 'First' Replaces Spinal Bone

By JOHN MATTERS

Surgeons at Royal Jubilee Hospital have replaced a diseased bone in a man's spinal column with a metallic substitute, the first operation of its kind to be reported in Canada and possibly the world.

The patient, a Victorian in his 60s, is in "very good condition," Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director told a press conference Monday afternoon.

The man's name was not released, and neither was that of the surgeon.

"To the best of our knowledge, there is no record of this operation being performed previously in Canada," said Dr. Pickles. "To that extent, it seems to be a first."

It was learned later that there also appeared to be no record of the procedure in the surgical literature of the United States or Great Britain.

The patient, suffering a progressively degenerative

disease, had a choice of undergoing the operation or spending the rest of his life on his back.

While it is still too early to assess the outcome of the operation, said Dr. Pickles, "we are very hopeful."

"I was talking to the patient an hour ago and he looks well and is in good spirits. He is quite aware that this is a novel procedure. He knew what was involved and said, 'Let's have a go at it.'"

"It took a willing patient and a courageous doctor."

The six-hour operation began at 9:05 a.m. Friday in one of the 13 operating rooms in Royal Jubilee's fifth-floor surgical suite.

There were six doctors and nurses in the team.

The first five hours were spent removing the diseased vertebra — the No. 2 lumbar — in the lower back. The bone, compressed under the weight of the upper part of the body, was meticulously chipped away.

It was an exceedingly delicate procedure because the spinal cord, the main member of the body's nervous system, is cradled in the bone of the spinal column.

A slip of the instrument could have damaged the cord, the cells of which do not regenerate, and could have left the patient with a permanent disability.

The patient was lying on his abdomen and immediately below the vertebra being removed was the abdominal aorta.

The proximity of that major blood vessel also required extreme caution.

Frazzling Pace Maintained In Postal Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiators maintained a frazzling pace Monday in a final effort to keep Canada's postal strike out of Parliament's lap.

The two key men attempting to narrow the issues in the dispute beat a well-worn path between suits in downtown hotel occupied by a federal mediator and their respective advisers. (See also Pages 7, 16.)

Romeo Mathieu, chief negotiator for the Council of Postal Unions, was up working at 7:30 a.m. after less than three hours' sleep.

PROMPT START

He joined the mediator, Judge Rene Lippe of Montreal, at 10 a.m., anticipating a "serious attempt" during the day to produce a settlement.

Douglas Love, the treasury board officer representing the federal government, arrived with his morning coffee in hand at 10:40 a.m.

INTO NIGHT

They broke again for dinner and were still continuing late in the evening with no sign of a solution.

There was no official indication of the specific subjects under discussion Monday, or during the 14 hours of negotiations Sunday, when Judge Lippe brought the two sides together after a four-day break.

The strike of 24,000 postal workers enters its 20th day today.

The federal cabinet, called into its weekly session a day early by Prime Minister Trudeau, was to meet this morning with the strike certain to be on the agenda.

Trudeau has said some form of intervention, presumably strike-ending legislation by a new Parliament, must be considered when it becomes apparent that the two sides are "worlds apart" or that the hardships on the public are becoming intolerable.

It was understood that major hurdles remained to be crossed on working conditions and wages.

AUTHORITY

Some of the problems involved are said to be the government's sole authority over job classifications, promotions and transfers.

The last official positions on wages present a tremendous gap, between a union demand for a 14-month contract increasing wages 75 cents an hour, and a government offer of 49 cents over 38 months. The average hourly wage is $2.57.

In each case the contract would be retroactive to Aug. 1 of last year. But the union is understood to object to any contract extending past Sept. 30, 1969.

The government is believed anxious to establish an agreement with the postal unions extending to Sept. 30, 1970, so that its termination will coincide with other contracts for civil service groups covered by the collective bargaining legislation.

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) —

The Republicans opened their 29th national convention Monday with Richard Nixon in town and gaining support, Ronald Reagan formally in the race and Nelson Rockefeller doggedly fighting Nixon's bandwagon strategy.

Inside convention hall and out, it was not Rockefeller's day. The delegates gave Barry Goldwater a nostalgic roar, heard Dwight Eisenhower's voice with respectful applause and saw a parade of young "new faces" in the GOP firmament led by keynote Governor Daniel Evans of Washington. (See also Page 14.)

Charles Percy, Howard Baker, Mark Hatfield and John Lindsay, four young "new breed" politicians, were the most talked about potential vice-presidential candidates.

POPULAR IDEA

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican nominee, flew into town with an idea popular with his own admirers—a Nixon-Reagan ticket. Reagan insisted second place was out of the question.

Despite an exhausting day in pursuit of delegates, Rockefeller saw Maryland Governor Spiro Agnew break the favorite son ranks the New Yorker considers vital in his strategy to halt a first-ballot Nixon nomination Wednesday night. Then Governor David Cargo of New Mexico told newsmen on the convention floor he probably would follow Agnew's lead.

STILL IN GAME

Rockefeller still had the big Ohio and Michigan delegations committed only to their governors on the first ballot and said "We've still got a ball game."

Nixon arrived from New York to a tumultuous greeting from 2,000 fans at the airport, and an arm-waving shout of "this time we're going to win" had the ring of supreme confidence.

Agnew's long-expected endorsement of Nixon could add as many as 17 Maryland delegates to his total. Cargo's shift would add his and another New Mexico

'A Very Nostalgic Surprise'

Like Old Times to Barry

By STUART H. LOOBY

MIAMI BEACH (LAT) — There was just a trace of old times: the sleek blue and white Jetstar whined its way to a stop, the hatch opened, and then, suddenly, there he was waving in the entrance way.

A shout of "We Want Barry" went up from the crowd. A small bugle and drum combination hired by Arizona delegates blared the battle hymn of the republic and Barry Goldwater set foot in Florida to make his contribution to the Republican national convention.

The crowd cheered. The drum-and-buglers played I Left My Heart in San Francisco.

You were thinking of old times, of how, four years ago in San Francisco, this was the man who stampeded the Republican party into supporting his Quixotic campaign for the presidency.

Talk about charisma. Remember those nights in the Cow Palace when the followers of Barry Goldwater hooted down New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller and then raised the rafters when he proclaimed:

"Extremism in defence of liberty is no vice. Moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

You suddenly found that he was thinking of old times as well.

"It's a real surprise, a very nostalgic surprise, to have people still interested in you," he told the airport crowd.

The convention hall speech Monday night told a story of a maturing process.

In place of his extremism remarks, there was this passage:

"Certainly it is true that the tide of liberty, even of liberalism that runs through all Republicans, has somehow escaped the notice of some of those who most loudly call for liberty today."

But in his press conference at the airport, he was the same shoot-for-the-hip candidate of old. What would be the big issue of 1968?

"Crime, the abuse of law, anarchy," he answered.

How did he feel about Lyndon Johnson running against him on a peace platform and then escalating the Vietnam war?

"Everyone in positions of responsibility in 1964 knew the war would have to be escalated," he said, including the president. He added:

"If I had to tell lies to get elected, I would just as soon go back to running the farm."

That was the fire that gave Goldwater all the excitement in 1964.

$2,000,000 Mall

Renewal Project Begun on Yates

By A. H. MURPHY

A $2,000,000 private enterprise urban renewal project has been started in the 700 block on the north side of Yates Street and will be completed in about two years.

The project, which has been under study for more than a year, is expected to revitalize the north side of Yates and the south side of Johnson between Douglas and Blanshard. It will be paid for entirely by the merchants involved, who have formed a new organization called the 700 Block Mid-Town Mall.

Incorporated in the new group are the 700 Block Yates Street Association and the Mid-Town Mall, the organization which administered the mall development on the south side between Yates and View.

INTERIOR MALL

Included in the enterprise will be:

• An interior pedestrian mall between the stores facing on Yates and Johnson which will open on to an interior courtyard, smaller than but somewhat similar to Bastion Square.

• Development of the interior mall in a manner similar to Tronzo Alley.

• A tie-in to a 400-car civic parking building which will span Johnson Street.

• A beautification program for Yates Street which will include cutting the vehicle channel to three lanes (Yates will be part of the city's one-way-street plan which goes into effect in September), widening the sidewalks and adding an avenue of trees and street furniture.

VITAL TO DOWNTOWN

Jack Lacterman, president of the former 700 Block Yates Street Association, who has been in charge of planning for what has been labelled "The North Side Project," said Monday that the concept was of vital importance to the downtown area of Victoria.

"It is another progressive step by the Yates Street businessmen who have already developed the mall on the south side and erected canopies on both sides of the street," he said.

"It is particularly important."

Israel, Jordan Both Chided In New Clashes

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — The United States reproved Israel Monday for a reprisal raid Sunday on an alleged Arab guerrilla camp near Amman, Jordan, while chiding Jordan for commando raids that preceded the air assault.

Making his first speech to the United Nations Security Council, George W. Ball, new U.S. chief delegate, also appealed to both sides to reconsider their opposition to the stationing of UN observers on the ceasefire line.

Gunfire Again

AMMAN (AP) — A Jordanian army spokesman reported Israeli troops on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River opened fire with machine-guns, mortars and 106-millimetre guns Monday evening on Jordanian troops near Almasani Bridge and Meshia village southeast of the Sea of Galilee.

The Jordanians returned the fire, the spokesman added, and the clash lasted 40 minutes.

The American delegate addressed the 19-nation council, called into emergency session at the request of both Jordan and Israel, after Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union linked the Israeli attack to Ball's own recent visit to Israel.

REJECTION

Malik suggested that the Israelis drew encouragement from what Ball told them in his private talks.

Ball angrily rejected this "contribution of obfuscation to the discussion of a tragic situation which is already clouded with dust and dissension."

In his statement, Ball said the U.S. government does not condone "the major military attack Israel made upon Jordan on Sunday."

There must be no doubt whatever about the U.S. position towards this attack and the others which preceded it, he said. At the same time, neither does the U.S. condone those acts of "terrorism and sabotage" which had, with increasing frequency, been launched from Jordan.

Thundering Rail Crash Sends 125 to Hospital

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) —

The Seaboard Coast Line's northbound Silver Meteor crashed into its southbound counterpart Monday, sending more than 125 persons to hospital. Four were hurt seriously.

The southbound train was stopped on the main track, waiting for the other train to switch to a siding, when the northbound train ran into it with a thundering crash tossing 15 cars off the rails, including nine passenger coaches.

More than 100 persons were treated at the Winter Haven hospital alone, said L. B. Johnson, hospital administrator. He said 21 people were admitted and another 81 were treated and released.

Among those treated was Bertrice Bedard of the Montreal suburb of Rosemount.

Railway officials were not certain what caused the accident.

"It could have been a faulty switch or a dispatcher error," said a spokesman. "We just don't know."

"It may take intensive investigation."

Trainmen aboard the stationary southbound Silver Meteor said they saw the other train coming but were helpless to prevent the crash.

"We saw him coming and realized he was on the same track," said Harold Walters, a fireman on the stationary southbound train. "When he showed no intention of stopping, we bailed out."

Three trainmen were trapped in the cab of one demolished diesel engine. Sheriff's deputy Ed Lockwood said: "They had to pry them out with crowbars and acetylene torches."

Manila Aftershock Panics Hundreds

MANILA (UPI) — A strong

aftershock from Luzon's killer earthquake drove hundreds of jittery office workers from tremor-damaged buildings into the streets this morning.

The new shock, coming four days after the earthquake that left more than 200 dead in the Manila area, was recorded at an intensity of 4 on the Rossi-

Forel scale of 10. It was one of the strongest of 351 aftershocks recorded.

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — An earth tremor shook the Peruvian capital for 10 seconds Monday. It caused no damage.

The geophysical institute recorded the temblor at 9:24 a.m.

Braves Stop Cub Rush As Cardinals Recover

Probably not settled down after an exciting three days in St. Louis, Chicago Cubs had their surge at least temporarily halted last night in Atlanta, where they took a 6-1 beating from the Braves to have their win streak snapped at six games.

It wasn't a good night for the Windy City gang. They turned a first-inning double by Felipe Alou into a run with two wild pitches and had the game put out of reach in the sixth inning when pitcher Milt Pappas hit a three-run homer.

While this was going on, the leading St. Louis Cardinals regained some of the ground they lost in the Cub's three-game sweep by defeating Cincinnati Reds.

MELODRAMATIC

Results left the Cardinals 14 games ahead with the Cubs and Braves tied for second place and the Reds another half game in arrears.

Sunday was something different as the Cubs somewhat spoiled "Stan Musial Day" by being a 13-inning thriller from the league leaders, 6-5, before 47,445 fans.

But the fans got full value in a game in which the Cubs scored more runs off Bob Gibson in 11 innings (5) than the big right-hander had given up in his previous 101 innings (3).

Billy Williams tied the score at 3-3 for the Cubs with a seventh-inning home run, then Al Spangler hit his first home run in two seasons for the Cubs in the ninth inning to tie at 4-4. The Cubs then went ahead, 5-4, in the 11th only to have the Cards tie it again in their half on a single by Lou Brock.

THE FINAL TOUCH

Finally ending the melodrama, utility infielder Lee Elia singled in Randy Hundley and the Cubs called on Joe Niekro to hold the lead.

Elia's hit came off Joe Hoerner, who made amends last night by shutting off an attempted rally in the ninth after the Reds had scored twice in the eighth inning.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates suffered their third consecutive shutout and Juan Marchal added in his bid for a 21st victory.

The Dodgers beat the Pirates last night, 1-0, when Zola Versalles hit a two-out, 10th-inning single. The Pirates were blanked, 7-0, in San Francisco on Saturday and 2-0 on Sunday.

But the Giants couldn't keep going even with Marchal ready last night, losing 4-6 to Philadelphia Phillies when Tony Gonzalez hit a two-run, 10th-inning homer.

Marchal escaped the loss, leaving after nine innings.

A HALF-GAME

In the American League, Baltimore Orioles made a small weekend gain as they continued their hot pursuit of Detroit Tigers.

Orioles marked time on Sunday as Denny McLain won his 22nd game for the leaders with a five-hitter which beat Minnesota Twins, 2-1, but the Tigers were idle last night and the Orioles picked up a half game by taking a 10-inning, 5-3 win from New York Yankees.

Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson hit successive home runs off Dockery Womack to break the 3-3 tie and give Baltimore its sixth win in seven games.

Baltimore needed only nine innings Sunday to best the Yankees by the same score.

STILL STRUGGLE

In last night's other American League game, Boston Red Sox got back the half game they lost by splitting Sunday games with California Angels.

The defending champions got by Chicago White Sox, 2-1, when Russ Gibson produced a 10th-inning single after a base on balls and a sacrifice.

On Sunday, the Red Sox won a game suspended on June 13 when Ken Harrelson hit a bases-loaded home run in the ninth inning to break a 1-1 tie. The Angels came back to win the scheduled game, 12-6.

Comox

Valley Trade Grows

By Ruth McKellar

COURTENAY — The prospect of continued peace in the forest industry has helped business activity in the Comox Valley to increase, according to T. W. C. Hillier, manager of Courtenay Manpower Centre.

He said on Monday that local businessmen reported an improvement in sales and orders, and a marked increase in tourists and holiday visitors.

"The tourist bureau reports that a total of 1,945 cars have used the bureau facilities to July 15, compared to 1,603 to the same date in 1967, with the largest increase occurring in July.

FIRE RISK

Mr. Hillier said: "Logging activity which centres around the Crown Zellerbach operation in this area is reduced to a minimum due to holidays, which are now being extended by a fire season. Heavy rain is needed before production can be resumed."

He said a two-shift operation at Field Sawmills Ltd., was continuing to provide employment for 40 men. There was no immediate threat of shut-down due to fire season as the mill had a large stockpile of logs.

STILL QUIET

The construction industry was still quiet and there was a surplus of carpenters and construction laborers. Bricklayers, plumbers and plasterers were in short supply.

Building permits for July in Courtenay totalled $86,000. Machine shops reported an increase in business during the month. Several contracts for the fabrication of logging equipment had been received and some new hiring was done.

STUDENTS WORK

Berry-picking provided work for a large number of students during the month but agricultural work was limited to dairy baying and silage harvest, he said.

Quaife Rides Waves

Mayor Jim Quaife of Duncan receives trophy from Marilyn Marshall, Miss Campbell River, after winning the mayors' bathtub race during the first water festival of Melvor Lake Sunday.

Trophy was made by local welding firm, Mayor Quaife beat seven other mayors. Mayor Skip McDonald of Campbell River by only 220 yards in the 2 1/2-mile event.

Last was Mayor Frank Ney. "But it was a good race," he said afterwards.

Mayor Quaife's tub finished 18th in the recent Nanaimo-Vancouver race when it was piloted by George Ferguson and Harvey Ledger of Duncan. They also designed it.

Mayor Quaife said it would be in the Nanaimo race again next year, but he wasn't sure who would pilot it.

There were rumors circulating that Mayor Quaife may be at the helm.—(Agnes Flett).

B.C. Ferry

Hijacking Bid Foiled

NANAIMO—An 18-year-old youth armed with a loaded .22-calibre rifle was talked out of hijacking the British Columbia ferry Queen of New Westminster in the Strait of Georgia Sunday night.

Capt. John A. Smith managed to calm down the youth and convince him he should surrender his weapon after he burst on the bridge of the ship, loaded with weekend passengers, and threatened two of the ship's officers.

Police arrested a youth when the ferry docked at this Vancouver Island port and seized a long-barrel rifle with nine rounds of ammunition in its chamber.

Larry Wayne Ness, 18, of New Westminster, appeared in magistrate's court here Monday charged with possessing an offensive weapon. He was remanded in custody without plea until Wednesday after the court was told the youth's parents were en route here to obtain legal advice for their son.

SMALL INCIDENT

Capt. Smith was called to the bridge. He persuaded the youth to hand over the rifle.

"It was a small incident," said Capt. Smith.

The captain's cool behavior was applauded by Monty Aldous, general manager of the B.C. Ferry Authority.

"The boy seemed to be very disturbed when he was on the bridge," said Mr. Aldous.

"After getting the rifle from him, Capt. Smith took the boy to his cabin and talked to him there until the ferry arrived in Nanaimo."

Mr. Aldous said the youth gave the captain no reason for his actions and made no effort to have the ferry's course changed.

SLEEPING BAG

Capt. Smith declines to elaborate on the incident. However, an RCMP officer here quoted the youth as saying to the captain, "I'll give you the gun if you promise not to shoot me."

The attempted hijacking occurred on the fourth anniversary of the $3,500,000 vessel's maiden voyage Aug. 4, 1964.

Police said they believe the rifle was smuggled aboard wrapped in a sleeping bag.

Story and Pictures By Brant Felker

CAMPBELL RIVER—When people returned from the water festival celebrations at Melvor Lake, Campbell River, Sunday, they found they had to pass through an RCMP roadblock.

The police were searching for George Terrence Latreille, 21, who apparently walked out of Snowden minimal security forest camp, 10 miles north of Campbell River.

About 5,000 people attended the festival, the highlight of which was the mayors' bathtub race. Twenty mayors were scheduled to show up. Most of them arrived, but because the race was set for late afternoon, a number were unable to stay.

In the men's canoe jousting contest, Ken McRaun and Ray Purkell emerged the winners. The Guides Unlimited team won the women's event.

Mike Murphy won the mile swim. Ed Sharkey was second and Margaret Lund, 13, of North Vancouver was third.

Lois Powell won the log-rolling competition and Ron Steel and David Thompson of Victoria were top in the canoe marathon.

Diver Gets Bends

A diver was flown to Victoria from Gold River Monday after he came down with an attack of bends.

Frank Sukkell was put in the navy's recompression chamber at 5 p.m. and released five hours later, apparently fully recovered.

He had been diving for two or three days consecutively, a navy spokesman said, and was brought here by a B.C. Airlines aircraft after he displayed symptoms of the disease.

The navy compressed the chamber to a pressure equal to an undersea depth of 60 feet and gradually decreased it. Mr. Sukkell was being kept under observation by the naval diving unit.

Cowichan Adult Program

Courses Offer Variety But Instructors Needed

DUNCAN — A big line-up of courses has been announced for the fall by Robert Thorburn, adult education director for Cowichan school district.

He said that a woman has offered to teach Hindi, one of the official languages of India, and oriental cooking. An instructor with a Ph.D. from the university of Denmark will be teaching comparative philosophy, if enough adults register for the course.

Two other courses to be offered will be catering and cooking, and fencing.

Mr. Thorburn said he is looking for instructors for other courses which have been suggested by night school students. These include taxidermy, weaving and rug hooking, family camping, tractor maintenance, and defensive driver-training.

He said he would also like to offer a course in advertising techniques for area business employees and he is looking into the idea of offering a special shore clerk training course.

"We should have a very interesting year," Mr. Thorburn stated. "Last year we offered about 150 courses, and this year we hope to offer 200."

He continued: "Our biggest problem each year is getting instructors. For example another instructor we need this year is a person to teach the Bishop method of dressmaking which has been very popular in the past.

"We have most of our instructors for the courses which are offered each year, but we want to offer the public a large variety of courses."

"We are looking for instructors of a high calibre if possible, and in this way we gave the people of the district the opportunity to obtain a high calibre of learning."

Paving Report

Increase in Taxi Rate Approved by Nanaimo

NANAIMO — City council Monday endorsed an application from city taxi operators to increase their rates.

From Sept. 1, the charge of 55 cents for the first quarter-mile will increase to 75 cents. The fee for each additional quarter-mile will stay the same at 10 cents, but the minimum charge will go up from 55 cents to 75 cents.

Operators said the increase was necessary to offset high operating costs, and low revenues, compared to other professions.

A report was submitted from the street and storm drains committee.

STREET COMPLETED

It stated that an extension of the 1968 street paving contract, covering widening and thickening of older residential street pavements is well underway.

Milton Street, from Wentworth to Fry, has been completed and Irwin Street, from Esplanade south to Baker Street, is being completed.

The committee hopes that Irwin Street, from Baker to Needham, will be constructed during the next winter works program — the pavement will be completed next year.

Streets scheduled for pavement widening and recapping are: Franklyn, from Milton to Kennedy, Wentworth Street, from Milton to Macleary, Macleary Street from Fitzwilliam Street to Comox Road, and Esplanade Road from Juniper Street to Brechin Street.

The curb sidewalk replacement program is underway in the downtown area, said the report.

Victoria Crescent is nearing completion and the committee recommended the use of colored concrete for sidewalk work in which favorable interest has been expressed by property owners.

Available colors include green, grey, black, yellow, terra cotta and tan, with yellow and tan being the most popular.

Neighboring owners have been agreeing on a choice of color and this uniformity throughout the length of a block is apparently producing a good result, said the committee.

Following the curb installations, pavement on main streets will be improved.

Douglas Could Win Say Two Officials

NANAIMO — Two Nanaimo spokesmen for the New Democratic Party said Monday they think national leader T. C. Douglas could win the Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands federal seat left vacant by the death of MP Colin Cameron July 28.

Frank Murphy, president of both federal and provincial riding constituency associations, said Mr. Douglas would be "a very suitable candidate and I think he would win."

Nanaimo MLA David Stupich said he "couldn't think of anywhere better than Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands for Mr. Douglas to run."

Mr. Murphy said he had called a meeting of his federal association executive for tonight.

"I don't know exactly what we will do," he said. "But we are in no rush to jump into a by-election right now."

"My feeling is that there won't be an election called for some time yet, not until after the house is in session, anyway," said Mr. Murphy.

"So I don't think there will be an immediate nominating convention."

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said in Vancouver Sunday he does not yet know if a Tory will run in a federal by-election in the constituency.

"It would be my hope and expectation we would contest the riding, but not without consulting the local people," said Mr. Stanfield.

Special Prize

Small Boy Hero Of Island Swim

NANAIMO — Although there were some strong performances in the Protection Island swim on Sunday, the hero was an eight-year-old Nanaimo boy.

Douglas Earle finished last with a time of 82 minutes. But when he climbed out of the water, he was given a big cheer by the spectators.

Mayor Frank Ney was so pleased with Douglas' effort that he gave the boy a special $5 prize.

Second was Doug who finished only about one second after his fellow club member. He received $10.

Grant Beatwick, also of Nanaimo, was third with a time of 23 minutes 32 seconds.

Also in the race was 13-year-old Jennifer Crocker of Seaton who finished ninth in 28 minutes. Her father, Dr. Keith Crocker was just behind her.

Bradney, 10-year-old son of Mayor Ney, also finished the race. Like the other members of the swimming club, he handed his winnings over to Don Shore, the club's manager.

The money will be used to help send a team to Vancouver to compete in a B.C. tournament.

About 270 swimmers took part in the race.

Chatterton Blasts Anderson

By DON GAIN

Former Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton rapped Liberal MP-elect David Anderson Saturday night for indiscriminate blame-laying on lack of action on the sewer question.

"It just doesn't make sense," Mr. Chatterton said.

"First, he blamed me, during the election, for not making people aware that funds were available from the federal government for sewers. The municipalities are aware that funds are available. This was brought through in 1961 and all municipalities, engineers and architects know about it.

TARGET BENNETT

"Then, after the federal election, he blamed the provincial government. Now he blasts Premier Bennett for not making use of this money."

the B.C. government for not asking the federal government for more money on behalf of the municipalities. He quotes a figure of $160,000,000 obtained by Ontario, compared with only $25,700,000 by B.C.

"The provincial government has never declined any application and has, in fact, supported every one without exception."

Mr. Chatterton said that under Part 68 of the National Housing Act, the federal government will lend to the municipality or to the regional board, two thirds of the cost of the plant, including outfalls and trunks.

The present interest rate is 6 1/2 per cent and the time of financing is up to 50 years. If work is completed before the March 31, 1970, deadline, 25 per cent of the loan plus 25 per cent of the interest up to the date of completion would be "forgiven."

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said most area citizens are tired of blame being tossed back and forth.

"The point Saanich has made is that we're not getting the sort of in-depth research we need. It should be of the highest priority for the federal and provincial governments, and particularly the federal government."

Ancient Stack Downed

A Lakehill landmark fell to the wreckers' hands Saturday morning as the 90-foot chimney at the old Quadra Street pumping house was toppled.

The chimney, unused since Growers Wine bought the property several years ago, was in danger of becoming a safety hazard due to loosening bricks.

The 67-year-old structure was built as part of a pumping station by Victoria when it received water from Beaver Lake. Installation of a water line to Victoria from Sooke Lake in 1912 made the structure obsolete, and since then, it has served solely as a sanctuary for birds.

Mail Dilemma

Trudeau Faces Prestige Loss

By NANCY BROWN

Interference in the postal strike would mean prestige loss for Prime Minister Trudeau, co-chairman of Victoria's striking postal workers said Saturday.

"As justice minister, Mr. Trudeau put through the legislation which gave us the right to strike for the first time," said Gerry Kenny, chairman of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

"His regime would be off to a poor start if he has to reverse parliament prematurely to take away the right he gave us, and order us back to work."

"I don't see how else he could interfere in the strike unless he pays some attention to our working conditions."

The president of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada, Jack Bell agreed with this opinion.

He said he has just received a breakdown of the proposal placed by the treasury board to the national postal workers negotiating committee.

Mr. Bell listed the rejected conditions:

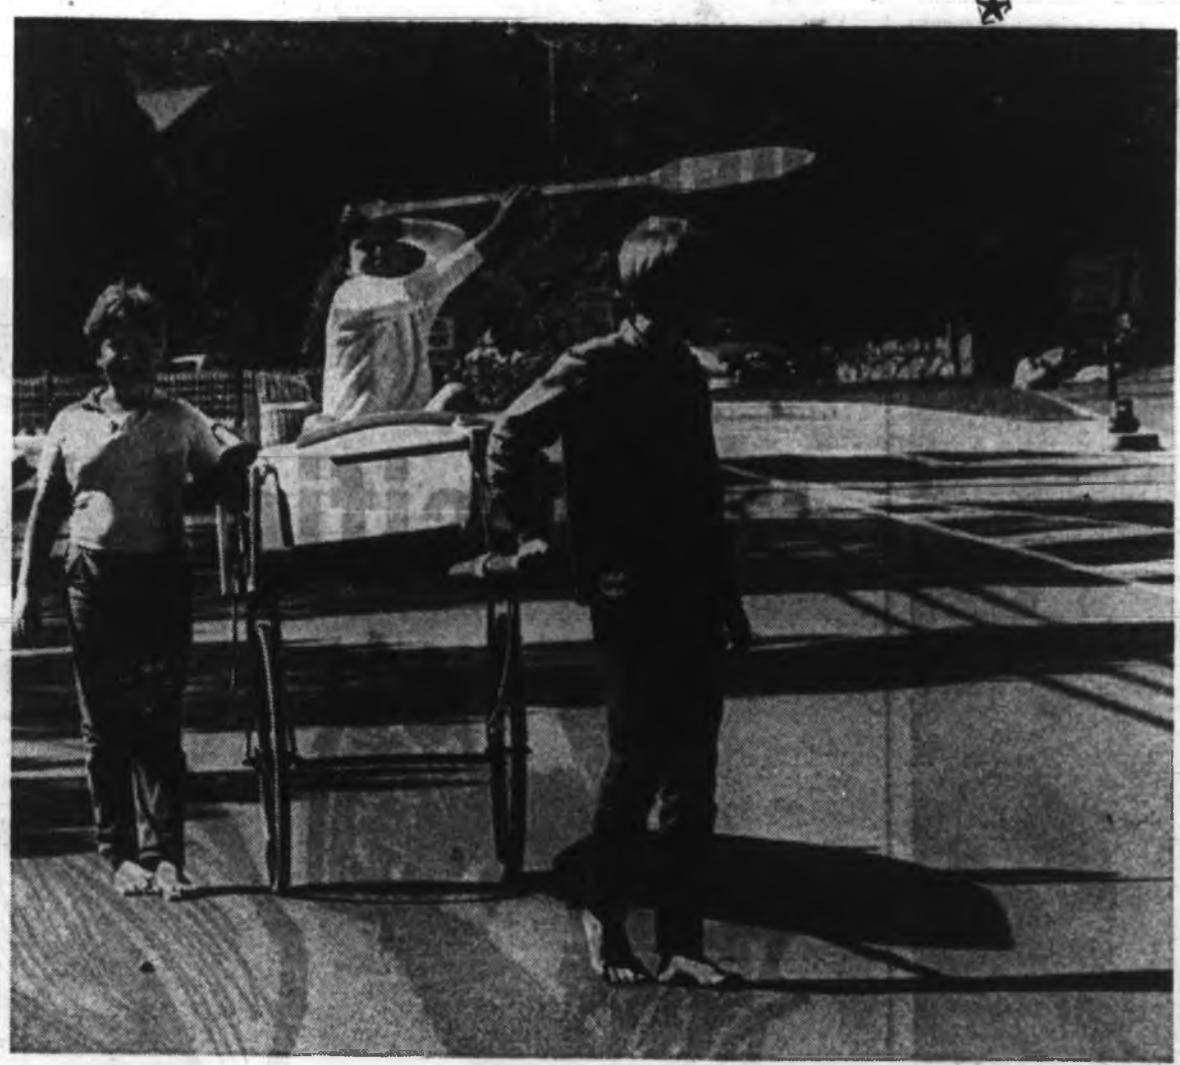

- Recognition of the 40-hour week and overtime for letter carriers after 40 hours. At present they work 83 hours in two weeks before getting overtime, although federal statutes call for overtime after 40 hours.
- Long service pay, already being given in some federal civil service unions.
- Additional holidays for long service — four weeks after 20 years instead of usual three weeks.

But he promised a full report "with no stall."

The issue stirred energetic debate after trustee John Porteous unexpectedly moved to abolish strapping. Trustees split on the pros and cons of corporal punishment.

Mr. Le Baron said he doesn't think the strap could be abolished overnight from Grades 1 to 12.

Problems Mount Up

What does rider in competition think about just as horse takes barrier? It could be whisper to mount to "Come on, boy, up." pictures of trophies could swim before rider's eyes, or thought might intrude that car wasn't locked. Whatever she was thinking Saturday, Carol Brown on Native Flower looked attentive in jump at Saanichton fairgrounds horse show, which starts final day at 2 a.m. today. ## Report on Strapping Not Ready Till Fall

A district-wide report on strapping in the schools probably won't be ready until early fall. Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn said Saturday.

Absence of many principals is slowing the gathering of information ordered at the board's July meeting, Mr. Bunn explained.

Trustees, Teenagers Debate 'Free' School

School trustees and teenagers met here Monday to discuss the possibility of a radical "free" high school in Victoria this fall.

A free school is needed for the many young people who can't stand the traditional high school, organizer Paul Le Baron, 57, said Saturday.

The free school would be similar to others opened recently in Vancouver and elsewhere. Students would have no formal discipline and would study according to their own inclination.

They would dress as they like, come and go as they chose and would associate with teachers as equals.

Mr. Le Baron said he would like to set up a free school under sponsorship of the school board, possibly through its adult education branch. Adult education director Jack Dalgleish has expressed interest, he said.

"It's a very urgent thing in the minds of some kids," said Mr. Le Baron, who said the idea was put to him by two Grade 10 students fed up with school.

Giant Tyee Loses Battle

Biggest Tyee taken on far side of Quadra Island for some years was this 57½-pounder landed last week after fierce battle by Jack Scannell of North Surrey. He was using her-ring strip and light tackle when he hooked big fellow just off Rebecca Spit. His 10-foot boat was towed into Open Bay before he was able to subdue the fish after 1½-hour battle. He took his catch into Taku Resort where Tom Colter, owner, weighed it. Haida Inn is having the fish mounted where it will be displayed. —(Gary Webster)

Cowichan Bay Contest

Salmon Ladder Fills

COWICHAN BAY — Leo Fee of Cowichan Station is at the top in the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club annual spring salmon ladder derby.

Mr. Fee won last week's $10 first prize for his 29-pound two-ounce catch.

He is followed by Tom Ord of Victoria who moved into second place when he caught a 27-pound two-ounce spring salmon last week, winning the $5 weekly second prize.

Fred French of Duncan said Vit Vaisis of Cobble Hill each won $5 when their salmon were closest to last week's hidden weights.

In the junior category, Terry Schiller of Duncan won $10 for his 22-pound four-ounce salmon, and Greg Hill of Cobble Hill won the hidden weight prize for his eight-pound, eight-ounce fish. Club Secretary, Mrs. Vivian Purney said Monday that "competition is getting keener as the ladder derby enters the last two weeks."

At the official closing of the third week Saturday, 46 rungs were filled.

The final fish-off will be on Aug. 25.

Mrs. Purney said that the 50 fishermen who remain on the ladder will be competing for cash prizes of $75, $50, $25 and two hidden weight prizes.

COURTENAY — Temperatures for July were several degrees above average, a spokesman for the weather station at CFB Comox reported this week.

The average maximum temperature showed the largest increase. It was 76.2 degrees, compared with a mean maximum of 72.6. The average minimum was 55 degrees, only 1.8 degrees above the mean minimum.

The spokesman said the overtures for July were several all average for the month was 65.6 degrees. The highest recording was 88 on July 31; and the lowest reading was 49 on July 1.

CITY 'FIRST' REPLACES SPINE UNIT

By JOHN MATTERS

Surgeons at Royal Jubilee Hospital have replaced a diseased bone in a man's spine with a metallic substitute, the first operation of its kind to be reported in Canada, and possibly the world.

The patient, a Victorian in his 60s, is in "very good condition," Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director told a press conference Monday afternoon.

The man's name was not released, and neither was that of the surgeon.

"To the best of our knowledge, there is no record of this operation being performed previously in Canada," said Dr. Pickles. "To that extent, it seems to be a first."

It was learned later that there also appeared to be no record of the procedure in the surgical literature of the United States or Great Britain.

The patient, suffering a progressively degenerative

disease, had a choice of undergoing the operation or spending the rest of his life on his back.

While it is still too early to assess the outcome of the operation, said Dr. Pickles, "we are very hopeful."

"I was talking to the patient an hour ago and he looks well and is in good spirits. He is quite aware that this is a novel procedure. He knew what was involved and said, 'Let's have a go at it.'"

"It took a willing patient and a courageous doctor."

The six-hour operation began at 9:05 a.m. Friday in one of the 13 operating rooms in Royal Jubilee's fifth-floor surgical suite.

There were six doctors and nurses in the team.

The first five hours were spent removing the diseased vertebrae — the No. 2 lumbar — in the lower back. The bone, compressed under the weight of the upper part of the body, was meticulously chipped away.

It was an exceedingly delicate procedure because the spinal cord, the main member of the body's nervous system, is cradled in the bone of the spinal column.

A slip of the instrument could have damaged the cord, the cells of which do not regenerate, and could have left the patient with a permanent disability.

The patient was lying on his abdomen and immediately below the vertebra being removed was the abdominal aorta.

The proximity of that major blood vessel also required extreme caution.

Nixon's Bandwagon First-Day Keynote

Frazzling Pace Maintained In Postal Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiators maintained a frazzling pace Monday in a final effort to keep Canada's postal strike out of Parliament's lap.

The two key men attempting to narrow the issues in the dispute beat a well-worn path between suites in a downtown hotel occupied by a federal mediator and their respective advisers. (See also Pages 7, 16.)

Romeo Mathieu, chief negotiator for the Council of Postal Unions, was working at 7:30 a.m. after less than three hours' sleep.

PROMPT START

He joined the mediator, Judge Rene Lippe of Montreal, at 10 a.m., anticipating a "serious attempt" during the day to produce a settlement.

Douglas Love, the treasury board officer representing the federal government, arrived with his morning coffee in hand at 10:40 a.m.

INTO NIGHT

They broke again for dinner and were still continuing late in the evening with no sign of a solution.

There was no official indication of the specific subjects under discussion Monday, or during the 14 hours of negotiations Sunday, when Judge Lippe brought the two sides together after a four-day break.

The strike of 24,000 postal workers enters its 20th day today.

The federal cabinet, called into its weekly session a day early by Prime Minister Trudeau, was to meet this morning with the strike certain to be on the agenda.

Trudeau has said some form of intervention, presumably strike-ending legislation by a new Parliament, must be considered when it becomes apparent that the two sides are "worlds apart" or that the hardships on the public are becoming intolerable.

It was understood that major hurdles remained to be crossed on working conditions and wages.

Some of the problems involved are said to be the government's sole authority over job classifications, promotions and transfers.

Lines Cut By Blaze

B.C. Telephone Co. late Monday night was investigating reports that some of its circuits in the Munn and Millstream Lake Road area had been severed by a forest fire.

In addition, there was a report a resident on Millstream Lake Road had evacuated his horses. It could not be confirmed, however.

The fire, burning north of Mount Finlayson, was being kept under observation overnight. (Earlier story Page 6.)

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) —

The Republicans opened their 29th national convention Monday with Richard Nixon in town and gaining support, Ronald Reagan formally in the race and Nelson Rockefeller doggedly fighting Nixon's bandwagon strategy.

Inside convention hall and out, it was not Rockefeller's day. The delegates gave Barry Goldwater a nostalgic roar, heard Dwight Eisenhower's voice with respectful applause and saw a parade of young "new faces" in the GOP firmament led by keynote Governor Daniel Evans of Washington. (See also Page 14.)

Charles Percy, Howard Baker, Mark Hatfield and John Lindsay, four young "new breed" politicians, were the most talked about potential vice-presidential candidates.

POPULAR IDEA

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican nominee, flew into town with an idea popular with his own admirers — a Nixon-Reagan ticket. Reagan insisted second place was out of the question.

Despite an exhausting day in pursuit of delegates, Rockefeller saw Maryland Governor Spiro Agnew break the favorite son ranks. The New Yorker considers vital in his strategy to halt a first-ballot Nixon nomination Wednesday night. Then Governor David Cargo of New Mexico told newsmen on the convention floor he probably would follow Agnew's lead.

STILL IN GAME

Rockefeller still had the big Ohio and Michigan delegations committed only to their governors on the first ballot and said, "We've still got a ball game."

Nixon arrived from New York to a tumultuous greeting from 2,000 fans at the airport, and his arm-waving shout of "this time we're going to win" had the ring of supreme confidence.

Agnew's long-expected endorsement of Nixon could add as many as 17 Maryland delegates to his total. Cargo's shift would add his and another New Mexico

'A Very Nostalgic Surprise'

Like Old Times to Barry

By STUART H. LOORY

MIAMI BEACH (LAT) — There was just a trace of old times: the sleek blue and white Jetstar whined its way to a stop, the hatch opened, and then, suddenly, there he was waving in the entrance-way.

A shout of "We Want Barry" went up from the crowd. A small bugle and drum combination hired by Arizona delegates blared the battle hymn of the republic and Barry Goldwater set foot in Florida to make his contribution to the Republican national convention.

His light grey glen plaid suit was immaculate, his light blue shirt was unwrinkled, his dark blue tie carried a barely visible Arizona state flag embroidered on it. He was tall and smiling and well tanned. The crowd cheered. The drum-and-buglers played I left My Heart in San Francisco.

You were thinking of old times, of how, four years ago in San Francisco, this was the man who stamped the Republican party into supporting the Quixotic campaign for the presidency.

Talk about charisma. Remember those nights in the Cow Palace when the followers of Barry Goldwater hooted down New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller and then raised the rafters when he proclaimed:

"Extremism in defence of liberty is no vice. Moderation in the pursuit of justice is not virtue."

You suddenly found that he was thinking of old times as well.

"It's a real surprise, a very nostalgic surprise, to have people still interested in you," he told the airport crowd.

The convention hall speech Monday night told a story of a maturing process.

In place of his extremism remarks, there was this passage:

"Certainly it is true that the tide of liberty, even of liberalism that runs through all Republicans, has somehow escaped the notice of some of those who most loudly call for liberty today."

But in his press conference at the airport, he was the same shoot-from-the-hip candidate of old. What would be the big issue of 1968?

"Crime, the abuse of law, anarchy," he answered.

How did he feel about Lyndon Johnson running against him on a peace platform and then escalating the Vietnam war?

"Everyone in positions of responsibility in 1964 knew the war would have to be escalated," he said, including the president. He added:

"If I had to tell lies to get elected, I would just as soon go back to running the farm."

That was the fire that gave Goldwater all the excitement in 1964.

$2,000,000 Mall

Renewal Project Begun on Yates

By A. H. MURPHY

A $2,000,000 private enterprise urban renewal project has been started in the 700 block on the north side of Yates Street and will be completed in about two years. (Pictures, Page 15.)

The project, which has been under study for more than a year, is expected to revitalize the north side of Yates and the south side of Johnson between Douglas and Blanshard. It will be paid for entirely by the merchants involved, who have formed a new organization called the 700 Block Mid-Town Mall.

Incorporated in the new group are the 700 Block Yates Street Association and the Mid-Town Mall, the organization which administered the mall development on the south side between Yates and View.

INTERIOR MALL

Included in the enterprise will be:

● An interior pedestrian mall between the stores facing on Yates and Johnson, which will open on to an interior courtyard, smaller than but somewhat similar to Bastion Square.

● Development of the interior mall in a manner similar to Tronche Alley.

● A tie-in to a 400-car civic parking building which will span Johnson Street.

● A beautification program for Yates Street which will include cutting the vehicle channel to three lanes (Yates will be part of the city's one-way street plan which goes into effect in September), widening the sidewalks and adding an avenue of trees and street furniture.

VITAL TO DOWNTOWN

Jack Lactormen, president of the former 700 Block Yates Street Association, who has been in charge of planning for what has been labelled "The North Side Project," said Monday that the concept was of vital importance to the downtown area of Victoria.

"It is another progressive step by the Yates Street businessmen who have already developed the mall on the south side and erected canopies on both sides of the street," he said.

"It is particularly important."

Israel, Jordan Both Chided In New Clashes

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — The United States reproved Israel Monday for a reprisal raid Sunday on an alleged Arab guerrilla camp near Amman, Jordan, while chiding Jordan for commando raids that preceded the air assault.

Making his first speech to the United Nations Security Council, George W. Ball, new U.S. chief delegate, also appealed to both sides to reconsider their opposition to the stationing of UN observers on the ceasefire line.

The American delegate addressed the 19-nation council, called into emergency session at the request of both Jordan and Israel, after Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union linked the Israeli attack to Ball's own recent visit to Israel.

REJECTION

Malik suggested that the Israelis drew encouragement from what Ball told them in his private talks.

Ball angrily rejected this "contribution of obfuscation to the discussion of a tragic situation which is already clouded with dust and dissension."

In his statement, Ball said the U.S. government does not condone "the major military attack Israel made upon Jordan on Sunday."

There must be no doubt whatever about the U.S. position towards this attack and the others which preceded it, he said. At the same time, neither does the U.S. condone those acts of "terrorism and sabotage" which had, with increasing frequency, been launched from Jordan.

Thundering Rail Crash Sends 125 to Hospital

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) —

The Seaboard Coast Line's northbound Silver Meteor crashed into its southbound counterpart Monday, sending more than 125 persons to hospital. Four were hurt seriously.

The southbound train was stopped on the main track, waiting for the other train to switch to a siding, when the northbound train ran into it with a thundering crash tossing 15 cars off the rails, including nine passenger coaches.

More than 100 persons were treated at the Winter Haven hospital alone, said L. B. Johnson, hospital administrator. He said 21 people were admitted and another 81 were treated and released.

Among those treated was Beatrice Bedard of the Montreal suburb of Rosemount.

Railway officials were not certain what caused the accident.

"It could have been a faulty switch or a dispatcher error," said a spokesman. "We just don't know."

"It may take intensive investigation."

Trainmen aboard the stationary southbound Silver Meteor said they saw the other train coming but were helpless to prevent the crash.

"We saw him coming and realized he was on the same track," said Harold Walters, a fireman on the stationary southbound train. "When he showed no intention of stopping, we bailed out."

Three trainmen were trapped in the cab of one demolished diesel engine. Sheriff's deputy Ed Lockwood said: "They had to pry them out with crowbars and acetylene torches."

Manila Aftershock Panics Hundreds

MANILA (UPI) — A strong aftershock from Luzon's killer earthquake drove hundreds of jittery office workers from tremor-damaged buildings into the streets this morning.

The new shock, coming four days after the earthquake that left more than 200 dead in the Manila area, was recorded at an intensity of 4 on the Rossi-

Forel scale of 10. It was one of the strongest of 351 aftershocks recorded.

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — An earth tremor shook the Peruvian capital for 10 seconds Monday. It caused no damage. The geophysical institute recorded the temblor at 9:24 a.m.
